REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION

The delegates to the Republican County Convention who were elected on Saturday, August 22d, will meet in Reynold's Hall, on TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6th,

at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating a ticket to be supported at the ensuing November election.

D. H. HASTINGS,
Chair'n Rep. Co. Con.

VOTERS, ATTENTION!

All voters must pay their taxes one month before election. See to it at once, you will not be allowed to vote if your taxes are not paid.

CONFERREES MEETING.

The Republican Congressional, Judicial and Senatorial conferrees will meet in Bellefonte, on Wednesday the 14th day of October next, if agreeable to all interested parties. We have been requested to make this announcement, and will be pleased to hear from the other counties of the districts.

ATTENTION!

Let every Republican delegate be on hand promptly at the meeting of the County Convention, to be held on TUESDAY, Oct. 6th. There never was a more favorable time for us to attain success. Remember a great deal depends upon the ticket you put in the field. Let it be our very best men, and those not controlled by any clique or ring. Our opponents have nominated men from their representative to Congress to their representatives to the State Legislature in the interest of the banks, railroads, and the monopolies. Bellefonte is not entitled to a representative in the Legislature; other parts of the county should receive some consideration. The people are not satisfied and justly complain. Let us then put a more acceptable ticket in the field and success is certain. Again, we say, let every man be at his post!

THE JUDGESHIP.

It would seem from the rumors afloat and the inquiries that reach us, that an impression exists among the republicans of the county, that there is a republican element in the county, and more properly in Bellefonte, that advises against and is opposed to the nomination of a republican candidate for Additional Law Judge in the twenty-fifth Judicial District.

We think the impression is an erroneous one and unfounded. How the impression originated, and became disseminated through the county, that the republican lawyers of Bellefonte are opposed to the republicans of Centre county putting in nomination a republican candidate for Additional Law Judge against Hon. John H. Orvis, the democratic nominee, we are at a loss to know. It might have proceeded from the personal friendship manifest between some of the members of the bar and Judge Orvis, or from some hasty and thoughtless declarations made by some of the republican lawyers of Bellefonte signifying a personal preference for Orvis on account of legal ability, to that of any other lawyer in the district. There may be one or two of the legal profession, known as leading republicans, that are very warm personal friends of Judge Orvis, and owing to that personal relationship, might be disposed to wish him success at least, but that the republican members of the bar as a whole, are opposed to, and counsel against the placing of a republican candidate in the field in opposition to Orvis, is certainly without foundation and utterly false.

What motive could or should induce the republicans of this Judicial district, to pay such extreme deference to Judge Orvis as to permit him to lease to himself the authority to wear the Judicial ermine for ten years longer, without opposition or criticism? Admit him the possessor of fine legal attainments and ability, yet he is not so absolutely perfect, as to be wholly invulnerable as a candidate for Judge, and entitled to so great consideration as to preclude all idea of the possibility of an equal. Let it be not overlooked that a Judge, whose province is to ajudicate the rights of persons and property, needs other qualifications than simply fine legal attainments. Honesty, integrity, and purity of character, with a conscientious view of the right, are qualifications not to be ignored in the selection of a Judge. We know no reason why the republicans of Centre county and the district should not nominate a candidate for Judge, as well as for the Assembly, District Attorney, or any other office to be filled at the coming election. If we leave the Judgeship vacant, why not leave all the rest of the offices vacant, and abandon our organization entirely? If we would keep our party organization intact, and keep it efficient, representatives must be put in the field who will lead the party and command support. If we surrender to the Democracy in one instance, then we invite demoralization, and as a party weaken and die. Then if the republicans of Centre county, have in keeping the interests of the party, and republican principles, they will not countenance any counsel that would necessarily tend to demoralize and weaken the organization, and that would tend to prevent their nominating a Judicial candidate. Neither need they hesitate long in making a selection. There is one man in the district of fine legal abilities, whose integrity and honesty of character, and whose conscientious views of the right, and fearlessness to discharge judicial duty in accordance therewith, are certainly not excelled if equalled in the district. That man is the Hon. J. B. McEnally, of Clearfield. He has been tried, and his eminent fitness fully established. He commends himself, not only to the republicans of Centre county, but to the republicans of the entire district as their candidate for Judge. We know of no motive that would prompt any republican, especially a lawyer, to support Orvis in preference to McEnally as the republican candidate, unless it would be that of self-interest on the part of any of the legal profession, who, in case Orvis should not be elected, would fear his professional influence might narrow their scope of legal operation, and reflect an umbrageousness that would shadow their brilliancy. But we believe none are so sordid or mercenary as to sacrifice principle to self-interest or self-aggrandizement, and no opposition will array itself to the Republican candidate for Judge from any republicon source.

We then favor the nomination of a Judicial candidate, and commend to the republicans of Centre county the Hon. J. B. McEnally, as the most fit man for the position. With him as candidate for Judge and an otherwise acceptable ticket, our chances for achieving political success at the polls this fall are decidedly good. There never was a time when republicans of this county and district should feel more encouraged, and should embark into a political campaign with greater promise of success, than in the present one. Then let prudence, wisdom, and unity guide our actions, and victory awaits us.

——We call the attention of the police to the fact that some young boys are in the habit of firing off pistols on some of our principal thoroughfares, in the evening. A horse on Saturday evening was frightened by a pistol shot and breaking loose left hurriedly for its country residence while the owner returned on foot.

THE NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

The New York Republican State Convention met at Utica on September 23d, with Hon. Edward D. Morgan as permanent chairman. General John A. Dix was unanimously renominated for Governor, General John C. Robinson for Lieut. Governor, Alexander Barkley for Canal Commissioner, Thomas Kirkpatrick for State Prison Inspector, and Alexander S. Johnson for Judge of Appeals. Senator Conkling made an able speech maintaining that the mission of the Republican party was not ended; it was the party of law and order and the country only was safe in its hands. He charged all the troubles and bloodshed in the South upon the Democratic party and pointed to the undeniable fact that every apparent Democratic reaction in the North was followed by violence at the South. The platform adopted reaffirms the principles of the party so often approved by the people; demands obedience to the laws and the full protection of every citizen in his rights against assassins and revolutionists; that armed rebellion must be suppressed and the supremacy of the law maintained at any cost. Also that taxation, direct or indirect, should be also adjusted as to be least burdensome to all classes; and endorses the National and State administrations.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

In accordance with previous announcement the Congressional, Judicial and Senatorial conferrees of the Democracy met in Bellefonte last Wednesday, and put in nomination for Congress, W. L. Mackey, of Clinton county, Wallace of Clearfield, for State Senate, and John H. Orvis for Judge. There was great dissatisfaction expressed by some of the delegates with these nominations. Robert McKnight of Centre county withdrew, refusing to take any part in the deliberations, and on motion to make the nomination of Mackey unanimous, Michael Shaffer, also of this county, voted no.

There was a delegation representing the independent democrats of Clearfield, but they were not admitted. That all these nominations are distasteful to a large portion of the democrats of this county is plain. On every side can be heard low mutterings, and threats of vengeance.

——There were something of a crowd in town last Wednesday, the occasion of the meeting of the democratic conferrees. We noticed Andy Reed, that long lawyer from Mifflin, who was accompanied by several other long, precocious looking conferrees. One of them while entering the hotel accidentally set his foot on a large dog tail but the animal pulled his caudal ornament away so suddenly that the conferree fell backwards on to the office floor and the dog made for him with open, savage jaws. A number of conservatives rushed to the rescue and got the conferree-eating animal out of the way. We didn't know any of the members of the delegations from Elk or Union counties, but they looked as profound and distingue as if they were sent here to perform some mission equal in magnitude to laying out a new earth or to revise the systems of the universe. Sheriff Lingle was the patriarch of the Clearfield delegation and Asbury Lee acted as stage manager. There was another man from Clearfield, (we believe) an old gentleman, who had lost a leg, and wore a long-tailed coat, whom we heard make a few remarks on the side-walk. He evidently belongs to the free-thinkers, not being owned or controlled by anybody. He did not have a high regard for one or two of the candidates and made some startling threats.

It was the Lock Haven delegation that astonished the natives. We noticed Col. Noyes, the Cardiff giant of the West Branch, with his pleasant mutton-tallow voice. There was also the smooth ministerial looking Richard Peale who is employed in Lock Haven by the year to make speeches for the Mayor; C. S. McCormick, Esq., the legal head-light of the Clinton County Grangers, was along as a judicial conferree. With him we noticed the youthful looking but talented and sensible William Parsons, Jr, the rising lawyer of Clinton. The other judicial conferree was Toby Abrams, Esq., whose ancestors crossed the Red Sea at low water-mark. We don't remember of ever hearing anybody blaming him with being the most virtuous and upright individual above ground and he certainly didn't make that impression here, for after his labors as conferree was ended, he busied himself nosing around into other people's business, and on Friday sent the Chief of Police after some of our most respected citizens, to go to Lock Haven as witnesses in one of his filthy little Quarter-session cases. We must not forget to mention Billy Simpson and George Ronion. The latter carried a capicious looking hand-trunk, which contained the regulation electioneering documents of the Clinton County politicians. Then there was J. C. C. Whaley, of the Clinton Democrat, whose front name, when written in full, is long enough to knock apples with; he was on hand, as quiet, dignified and serene as a clam at high water. After supper, the scene at the Bush-House was rather interesting. The prominent politicians of the county had gathered in and there was something like an old-fashioned war dance carried on, Simpson acting as Grand Tycoon. They mostly all left on the evening train, and our staid old town resumed the even tenor of her ways, just as if we'd never been inundated with a lot of wisdom-saturated politicians.

INSTITUTE OF THE ZION'S UNION AND EMANUEL CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOLS.—According to previous appointment many of the members of the above named schools met on Friday, Sept. 18, at 2 o'clock P. M., in church of the Evangelical Association, near Churchville.

The Institute was held under the auspices of the Centre County Sabbath School Association. In the absence of the President and Secretary of that body, Mr. S. M. Swartz was appointed Sec'y pro-tem. The Institute was then opened with devotional exercises, consisting of singing, prayer, repeating scripture promises and reading of responsive scriptural quotations, from a slip prepared by Rev. R. Crittenden, in which all joined, led by Rev. R. Crittenden. The leader then made some very appropriate remarks, urging the officers and teachers to faithful work in the good cause thereby receiving a blessing themselves and imparting the same to others. In the mean time Prest. Hamilton arrived and took the chair. Revs. R. Crittenden, R. Young, and Supt's J. S. Housman, and M. F. Aultz were appointed a committee to make out a programme for the evening session. Zion's Union school repeated the names of the books of the New Testament in their order in concert, after which the other school recited the lesson appointed unto it—subject, "The Grinding Mill." Both recitations were performed in a very creditable manner. A statement of the schools and of any difficulties etc., connected with any of the schools was called for, which caused some discussion. It was proposed that the schools should unite and be kept open during the winter season. In giving the statement of the Emanuel Church Sunday School it was remarked that some of the church members were opposed to Sunday Schools. Mr I. Lose, said that every praying person should take part in the Sunday School. Prayer by Rev. R. Young. Rev. R. Crittenden addressed the children upon the way to be happy. The committee on programme reported the following topics, viz: What benefits are derived from a personal study of the bible? by the President. What can parents do for the Sunday School? by Prof. McKee. What good has the Sunday School done? by Rev. R. Crittenden, and where should we look for the conversion of our children? Answered by Mr I. Lose. The exercises were interspersed with singing and prayer. The singing under the leadership of J. S. Housman, was made the subject of many flattering remarks. The evening session was particularly well attended, many encouraging words and much good advice being given. On the whole it was a profitable meeting, and it has undoubtedly increased the interest in the Sabbath School cause in this place. May God's blessing attend it.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, September 29, 1874.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

I did not guess upon the subject when I stated in my letter, bearing date August 1st, that "the facts do not justify the inference of any notable revival of business during the coming fall." That observation was not made until I had obtained the views of many of the city, and it was made in the face of editorial articles in almost every one of the 18 dailies published in this city which asserted most positively that there would be a busy and prosperous fall trade done here.

Neither do I give a mere opinion based upon theory when I state—as I now do—that a lively and profitable trade will not be reached until the bursting of the buds in the spring of 1875. Everything must "touch bottom" before there will be an upward turn in the tide; everything that has not yet reached lowest prices is rapidly approaching that point; rents, labor, freights and fuel are the last to succumb. Our property owners are reducing rents 25 per cent., for the reason that the unemployed tenant cannot possibly pay more; labor wages have fallen rapidly within the past few months, because there is literally nothing doing and an over-supply of willing hands to perform the little there is to do; fuel keeps up because the English stock-holders of the Reading Railroad company, want 12 per cent. dividend upon their investment and Americans are fools enough to uncomplainingly gratify them, and freights are not being reduced because rich stock-holders don't choose to recognize the fact that one dollar to-day purchases as much farm produce and wearing apparel as twice that amount did three years ago.

Exhorbitantly high rents are maintained because the annual expenditure of twenty-five million dollars for municipal purposes, squandering and stealing, requires the imposition of a 2½ per cent. tax rate to meet it. As our municipal elections occur in February and have no bearing whatever upon the State or national elections which take place in November, I imagine the present state of affairs will continue just as long as tax-payers and people rally under the party call and elect only professional politicians to administer our city government.

HARD TIMES.

I cannot more forcible portray the distress existing in this city among those who labor for their daily bread, than by instancing the case of Barnum who, when he brought his Hippodrome here, advertised for a great number of men to parade at each performance; a great many more than were required presented themselves, and although their services were needed 16 hours each day, they gladly accepted the pittance of four dollars per week which the great showman—who made a net profit of $70,000 while here—with princely liberality gave them.

HISTORICAL BUILDINGS.

The Hall of American Independence is located on Chestnut street below Sixth. It is usually visited by the stranger in our city, and, I opine, with feelings closely akin to those which awed the crusader when he first gazed upon the tomb of Jesus, the Nazarene. Directly upon the corner of Sixth and Market streets—only one square distant—once stood the residence of Robert Morris, the famed financier of Pennsylvania whose pre-eminent wisdom and management of the financial interests of the government during the revolutionary struggle seemed guided by an overruling Providence. Immediately east of the residence and grounds of Robt. Morris stood the home of GEORGE WASHINGTON, president of the United States, the only name in the directory of that period, printed in small capital letters. This house was built for Governor Richard Penn, and was occupied as the Executive Mansion of Washington and John Adams.

A very fair representation of these historical buildings—which were long ago torn down—is preserved in the immense painting of them presented to public view on the Sixth street front of the colossal structure now standing upon their sites. Just here let me call the reader's attention to the fact that this gigantic establisment—the largest of its kind in the world—is the practical result of judicious and liberal advertising in city and country newspapers. Fourteen years ago its proprietors began business: the first day's receipts were but $24.57; they now frequently reach $25,000 a day, and average $1,000 for each working day of the year; and it is the earnest hope of every little clothing merchant in the city who has not the sense to advertise, that John Wanamaker, Esq., will at once retire from business or discontinue advertising. It seems to me no other deduction can be drawn from the case here presented than that if the man in business would prosper he must liberally patronize his country newspaper.

Only one square further North, at the South-east corner of Arch and Fifth streets is the last earthly resting place of Benjamin Franklin, and his wife Deborah, who both lie buried in one grave with a large square marble slab laid flatway above them. This double grave is so arranged that it can be viewed from the street walk.

In the face of the distress existing among the poor of this city, the Reading coal company has advanced the price of coal 15 cents a month, and has at the same time reduced the rates for labor wages by suspending work at the mines and putting their railroad employees on half-time. Just why we are compelled to pay forty five cents a ton more for coal, and it costing the company 40 cents a ton less to mine and carry it to market than it did last spring, has not yet been explained by the acting president of the company.

THE CENTENNIAL.

The erection of buildings for the International Exhibition of 1876 is progressing with marvellous rapidity. In the meantime the invitation extended by the President of the United States to the nations of the world to make such exhibit at the Exhibition of 1876, of their arts and industry as will serve to illustrate the advances attained, and the successes achieved in the interest and progress of civilization during the century which will then have closed, has been formally accepted by the Netherlands, Sandwich Islands, Sweden and Norway, Switzerland, Spain, Peru, Mexico, Liberia, Japan, Hayti, Guatemala, Ecuador, Chili, Brazil, Argentine Confederation, Belgium, France and Germany.

The last named nation thus writes: The German Empire accepts with sincerest thanks the invitation of the government of the United States of America to take part in the International Exhibition of 1876. The appointment of a special commission for the Exhibition as also a plenipotentiary residing in Philadelphia, will therefore be made in time. The Chancellor of the Empire.

Signed: BISMARCK.

Commissioners have been appointed by the nations named, and a number have already presented their credentials and are now here to look after the interest of the government and people they represent. In this respect it occurs to me that these foreign governments are far in advance of the States and Territories of our own nation which as such have done but little towards promoting the interests of the people of the different States of the Union.

Some idea may be formed of the feeling now existing in reference to this matter of exhibiting skilled workmanship by my saying that the Franklin Institute Scientific Exhibition which opens here next month, has about two acres of space under roof and that every available foot is already taken and applications made for space covering not less than six acres. It is my intention to note the most important improvements in mechanism placed on exhibition before this Institute.

The second annual report of Mayor Stokley—a large and instructive volume of 900 pages has been issued. The Mayor, who is a faithful executive, is suffering from a second attack of congestion of the brain. His physicians entertain a hope of his recovery.

The Republican convention of the Fourth district re-assembled and nominated Horatio G. Jones for State Senator. This is the convention that Senator Rutan of Beaver county thought ought to have nominated Col. A. K. McClure, but it didn't. M'Clure may have had an attack of Mann-Mackeyism, but I question if it was anything like so serious as Rutan's attack of M'Clureism.

It is due to M'Clure to say that he notified the President of the Convention that he was ineligible, under the rules of the party, which require all candidates, before a convention, to pledge themselves in advance to support the nominee of the convention, and hence any use of his name would be unauthorized.

The will of Mary D. Browne was admitted to probate during the week; she bequeaths $139,000 to 25 charitable institutions in this city, in sums ranging from $2,000 to the Lying-in and Nurse charity, up to $20,000 to the Pensylvania Hospital for the insane.

Butter is retailing at 50 cents a pound; apples 15 cts. half peck; potatoes, 20 cts.; tomatoes, 12 cts.; eggs, 35 cts, the dozen; sweet potatoes, 30 cts. half peck; chickens 25 cts. a pound; corn, 20 cts. a dozen.

A general meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be held here at noon on the 3d day of October to take action upon the report of the Investigating Committee.

The creditors of Jay Cooke & Co., will hold a public meeting in this city on the 6th of October. The report of the Trustee has just been made; he has collected $1,043,851.11, and spent $293,295.73 in doing it, leaving but $750,555.38 in his hands. Jay Cooke himself would have made a better Trustee than bank president Lewis who was elected by the creditors.

Christian K. Ross has begun a libel suit against the publishers of the Reading Eagle for publishing a letter derogatory to his character. In the meantime he has to decline the paternity of a half dozen Charlie Ross' each week to the great chagrin of the over-officious persons who present them. J. W. F.

Poetry

IF I COULD KEEP HER.

Just a little baby, lying in my arms—
Would that I could keep you, with your baby charms;
Helpless, clinging fingers, downy, golden hair,
Where the sunshine lingers, caught from otherwhere;
Blue eyes asking questions, lips that cannot speak,
Rolly-polly shoulders, dimple in your cheeks;
Dainty little blossom in a world of woe.
Thus I fain would keep you, for I love you so.

Roguish little damsel, scarcely six years old—
Feet that never weary, hair of deeper gold;
Restless busy fingers all the time at play,
Tongue that never ceases talking all the day;
Blue eyes learning wonders of the world about.
Here you come to tell them—what an eager shout—
Winsome little damsel, all the neighbors know;
Thus I long to keep you, for I love you so.

Sober little school girl, with your strap of books,
And such grave importance is your puzzled looks;
Solving weary problems, pouring over sums,
Yet with tooth for sponge cake and for sugar-plums;
Reading books of romance in your bed at night,
Waking up to study with the morning light;
Anxious as to ribbons, deft to tie a bow,
Full of contradictions—I would keep you so.

Sweet and thoughtful maiden, sitting by my side,
All the world's before you and the world is wide;
Hearts are there for winning hearts are there to break,
Has your own, shy maiden, just begun to wake!
Is that rose of dawning glowing on your cheek
Telling us in blushes what you will not speak!
Shy and tender maiden, I would fain forego
All the golden future, just to have you so.

Ah! the listening angels saw that she was fair,
Ripe for rare unfolding in the upper air;
Now the rose of dawning turns to lilly white,
And the close-shut eyelids veil the eyes from sight;
And the past I summon as I kiss her brow—
Babe, and child, and maiden, all are with me now.
Oh! my heart is breaking, but God's love I know—
Safe among the angels, He will keep her so.

I'M WEARY.

I'm weary of life and its battles,
Tired of learning so oft
That our fairest and sweetest flowers
Perish first in the blast of the north:
That our hopes, like withered rose leaves,
Fall one by one quickly and sure;
And not even our loves and our friendships
In adversity's winds will endure.

I'm tired, too, of life's envies,
Its quarrels, its fraud, and its strife;
And I fain in the grave would be lying,
If death were the end of life.
The friends that I loved and trusted
Have failed me one by one,
And my loved ones too have vanished,
Like the mists before the sun.

I once had a darling cousin,
"With eyes that were dark and deep;"
But coldly the death shades were falling,
And she fell 'mid her shadows asleep.
I once loved a pretty flowret,
That gay in a garden smiled;
But the winter's chill breath touched it,
And it faded and drooped and died.

Each thing that I loved and cherished
Passed from me soonest of all;
And now all that's nearest and dearest
I dare not love at all;
The robins sing in the morning,
And the lilies dance in the breeze
That, whispering, tosses the ivy,
And coquets with the laughing trees.

But into my heart steal no echoes!
The music of life has fled!
The hopes of my childhood are ended!
The hopes of my youth are dead!
So I am weary, weary, and tired;
Feign would I lie asleep,
Where the grass in the churchyard swaying
With the willows forever weep.

LIVE IN LOVE.

Be not harsh and unforgiving,
Live in Love, 'tis pleasant living,
If an angry man should met thee,
And assail thee indiscreetly,
Turn thou not again and rend him,
Lest thou needlessly offend him;
Show him love hath been thy teacher—
Kindness is a potent preacher;
Gentleness is e'er forgiving,
Live in love, 'tis pleasant living.

Why be angry with each other!
Man was made to love his brother;
Kindness is a human duty,
Meekness a celestial beauty;
Words of kindness spoke in season,
Have a weight with men of reason;
Don't be others' follies blaming,
And their little vices naming;
Charity's a cure for railing,
Suffers much, is all prevailing,
Courage, then, and be forgiving;
Live in love, 'tis pleasant living.

Let thy loving be a passion,
Not a complimenting fashion;
Love is wisdom, ever proving
True philosophy is loving;
Hast thou known that bitter feelings,
Gendered by our hate's concealing
Fetter love, though e'er so blindly,
E'en the foes will call it kindly,
Words are winds; O, let them never
Friendship's golden love cord sever!
Nor be angry, though another
Scorn to call thee friend or brother,
"Brother," say, "let's be forgiven;
Live in love, 'tis pleasant living."

Our Story Teller.

THE LAST OF THE FAMILY.

A sale in a retired country village is an event of no light importance. The idle and unoccupied of the surrounding district seize with avidity so propitious an occasion to escape from the tedious uniformity of their existence, and, from motives varying in degree, but centering alike in a love of change, flock eagerly to a spot offering such multifarious attraction. Some have, or think they have, a taste for paintings; others are amateurs in old china or bijouterie: a fine library has charms for a few; and for the many the mere wish of viewing a house and furniture, hitherto perhaps unapproachable, or, yet more, the desire to pry into family concerns and draw forth the secret causes of the impending events, may amply account for the desertion of their homes for one day, even were the opportunity of making that a holiday entirely out of the question.

That the advertisement of a sale in a village of Mardale, a lovely spot in the south of Devon, excited even more than the usual interest was not surprising, as it related to the property of an ancient but decayed family, whose last surviving member, after struggling for some years to maintain his hold on the mansion of his fathers, found himself compelled in the decline of life to bend to adverse fate, and behold the alienation of all that yet remained to him to love or value.

The news spread far and wide; and, in full expectation that the assemblage would be more than ordinarily great, the landlady of the only inn that our village afforded thought fit to lay in an ample store of provision, under an impression that the fatigue and exhaustion of the visitors would not fail to fill her house and purse; thus exemplifying the old adage that it is 'an ill wind which blows nobody good.' That the Golden Lion (now changed by age and weather to the hue of copper) needed such a windfall, few would have been disposed to deny who looked on that venerable sign; but on this occasion our hostess 'reckoned, as the phrase goes, 'without her host.' The wind of this all-important day, so far from blowing in her favor, blew, as the sailors say, 'right in her teeth;' for, though the vesitants outnumbered even her most sanguine calculation, it seemed as though one absorbing spirit of economy pervaded the whole. Never surely was such a transit of eatables as on this memorable occasion—eatables which the fervor of a July sun tended but little, to improve! Gravy-oozing pastics, tarts bathed in their own syrup; sandwiches dissolving in fat and butter, and cakes flattened all out of form or shape by close and careful packing—such were the danties for the discussion of which the proprietors sought the accommodation of the Golden Lion, and deemed the consumption of a pint or a gill of wine ample recompense for the occupancy of its large, cool parlor.

Mrs. Barbara Thoms, however, for such was the name of the hostess, thought very different, and could indeed, scarcely dispense her fluids with any degree of temper, in her melancholy forbobings as to the probable fate of her viands. In vain did she intimate the plentiful state of her larder; the intimation fell on deaf ears. In vain did she, as her only remaining chance of reimbursement, remind her guests—customers they could scarcely be called—that the day was hot, and counsel then to a more liberal use of her liquids, which, she took care to add, were not to be matched at any village on their way home; the demon of parsimony had taken possession of the whole party, and the hour of closing the view and dismissing the viewers to their respective abodes beheld her with larder still full, and her cellar little diminished by the custom of a day to which she had looked forward for prize and profit.

Under such circumstances the sweetest temper must have become sour; how much more that of Mrs. Barbara Thoms, which, originally none of the best, was quite inadequate to contemplate her present loss, and future lack of trade in the removal of that family, with whose fortunes her own had hitherto been closely linked, and in whose ruin she seemed to behold her own prospective downfall.

At this critical time when she was busily employed in restoring order to her parlor, and maundering over the great trouble and no profit of the day to an awkward serving-maid, on whose misdeeds she vented from time to time the accumulated acrimony of her own disappointment, a traveler of middle age stalked suddenly into the apartment, abruptly craved her leave to put a few questions respecting the sale.

'I have no time to answer questions,' responded the angry hostess, looking scornfully round on the dust-soiled boots of the intruder, 'and I know nothing at all about the sale—every one to their own concerns say I, and I am sure mine just now are enough to put a lone woman past her wits!'

'I shall be sorry to cause you any inconvenience,' continued the traveler. 'But I am a stranger—' ('Ay, like enough,' muttered Mrs. Thoms,) 'and know not where else to seek for the information which it is doubtless in your power to give.'

'May be so, may be not,' returned the landlady, looking round, however, once more as she spoke. Apparently this second view was anything but satisfactory, as she turned her back on she speaker with more than needful abruptness, and fell to rating her luckless attendant in a sharper key than before. 'Look before you leap. Are you mad, I say? and the chair-leg within a hair of smashing the best looking-glass, which, saving the crack along the middle, is as good as new! I trow if you had cracked it I had gone nigh to crack your foolish pate.'

'I would not willingly disturb you,' resumed the traveler, 'but I have journeyed far, and am wearied both in body and mind.'

'You should have taken the coach,' retorted his unsympathizing auditress, 'like other decent folk—an da few of them have been seen in Mardale this day! It is not to be thought that, after keeping an open house till this hour for tramps and all sorts, I should live to see such a house tramped over by such a pitiful crew, who had not grace to order a bite and hardly sup at an honest women's house that had toiled for their service—it is not to be thought, I say, that they will open the hall again, and to such as you, friend! Every dog to his own manger is an old saying and a true one; not but if you are wanting to refresh yourself after a long trot this broiling day, and it is like you will be thinking more of that than of the goods up yonder, which are none of your market. I guess you might have lighted on a worse house, and God forbid that I should deny needful provision to any traveler, horse or foot, that can pay his reckoning!'

'I am careless as to food,' said the traveler.

'I thought as much,' returned the hostess, in a tone of ineffable scorn, 'and so for a half-pint of ale or some such small matter, you would, I dare say, take up my parlor and my time! No, no, master! I have not kept an inn these thirty years to throw my pearls to swine in that fashion. There is a pot-house over the way, and a sanded parlor—an Axminster carpet is for better guests, I trow.'

'I begin now to understand,' rejoined the stranger, 'what indeed I might have recollected sooner, that, to insure civility at an inn, it is requisite to order a dinner.'

A dinner!—the sound was electrical!

'Why, Nelly, look to the fire—a dinner' as if recollecting herself, 'truly friend, it is soon ordered and soon eaten—but when paytime comes?'

'I shall, I trust, be able to discharge the reckoning,' replied the stranger, holding up a well-filled purse.

Never was so rapid a charge as in the demeanor of Mrs. Barbara Thoms.

'That I should make such a blunder!—I who have kept house these thirty years, and ought to know a gentleman at first glance!—and now I look rightly at your honor, I see that you are a true gentleman, and a gentleman's dinner you shall have, or my name is not Barbara—why Nelly! Susan!'

'Stay a moment, my good lady,' cried the traveler, laying his hand gently on her arm. 'As to the dinner I am indifferent.' The countenance of Mrs. Thoms fell—'order it as you please'—it brightened again—'I am more anxious to learn the cause of the sale, if indeed yon mansion is still tenanted by a family, with whom, if I err not, you were formerly somewhat closely connected'—Mrs. Thoms started. 'Believe me,' he continued, 'I am not actuated by idle curiosity. I would gladly become the purchaser of the domain, if it must pass away from its ancient possessor.

'Alack, there is no remedy,' returned the amazed hostess. The poor old squire—'

'He still lives, then!' exclaimed the stranger.

'Ay, sure,' replied Mrs. Thoms; 'though, considering all the trouble that he has made for himself and that others have made for him, his life is little worth. Alas! alas! that he should be the last of the family, and that, being the last, he should be forced in his age to quit his own home and lay his head Heaven knows where, if indeed to-morrow does not kill him outright.'

'Is he—Mr. Tresilian I mean—still at the hall?'

'He went to the gardener's just while the house was open,' replied Mrs. Thoms, 'but I make no doubt he has crept back before now; for never was man so loath to leave his own home as my poor old master; but if your honor has a thought for a good pennyworth, as I am told, you would doubtless like to see the house?'

'Indeed I should,' returned the stranger, eagerly, 'but that I fear to intrude on the privacy or misfortunes of its owner.

'Tut, tut, I can mannage all that, cried the self-sufficient hostess. 'It is' but my word to old Mr. Merrick, the steward, and you can look the house all over, bating the squire's little study, which is hardly worth your honor's notice.'

'Do, but this, Barbara—Mrs. Thoms, I mean'—exclaimed the stranger, with extraordinary animation, 'and I am bound to your service.'

Bound to her service! Poor Mrs. Thoms was petrified, but it was with delight. The overstocked larder faded into thin air; her imagination was playing at hide and seek with her wits; a new squire and a rich one!—why, such a golden chance must of necessity regild the golden Lion! Prospective guineas dance before her eyes.

'And your honor really means to buy the whole estate? Thank Heaven, then, I shall not see the old house demolished, the noble trees felled, the beautiful park parcelled out into farms, and the rich furniture and pictures knocked down to Jack Nokes and Tom Styles!'

'And would such profanity have been intended?' cried the stranger.

'They would have done as I have said, replied Mrs. Thoms, not perhaps quite comprehending her companion; 'ay, and will now if—'

'Never, never!' interrupted he, earnestly.

'Nay, and I say amen to that,' replied the dame, 'as I hope for better times!—but I see your honor is impatient, so I will e'en trust Nelly for once to get things in readiness, and wait on you myself to the old house.'

The stranger nodded assent, and, Mrs. Thoms having made her arrangements with all speed, they set forth in good earnest to the now silent manor-house.

This mansion, which was of some antiquity, stood on the verge of a park of considerable extent, but chiefly remarkable for its magnificent timber, the stern proprietor having repeatedly declared that he would rather resign the estate altogether than endure to see it shorn of its greatest boast and beauty.

From the like feeling he had always resisted any proposal to ward off embarrasment by the sale of pictures or plate, performing to continue in a ruinous course of borrowing, which had finally led to the impending result. Yes, with the tenacity of one who cleaves to the last moment, to the abode of his ancestors, he had postponed his departure for a remote country to the morning of that day on which the sale was to take place, and, as the landlady truly anticipated, had returned from his temporary retreat to rest once more under his patrimonial roof. This, however, opposed no difficulty to the entrance of those who sought admittance; the private report of Mrs. Thoms as to the presumed wealth of the stranger, and his wish to purchase the whole nomain, being too agreeable to the feelings of the proprietor—feeling galled to the quick by the thought that his most dearly prized relics might pass into ignoble or unworthy hands—to admit of hesitation or obstable.

A gray headed steward, to whom the stranger apologized for wearing his hat, which he had in fact drawn far over his forehead offered to be his guide, and the bustling Mrs. Thoms constituted herself a supernumerary attendant.

Thus accompanied, the stranger passed silently through a suit of venerable rooms, in which the successive accumulation of several generations now stood lotted for dispersion. In vain, however did Mrs. Thoms comment with her accustomed fluency on the merits of articles which she imperfectly understood. In vain, did the steward, in speeches fluent, but of greater feeling, give a slight sketch of each apartment and its contents, in order to win the attention of the stranger. Silently and sullenly, as they thought he passed on, and each began to fear that his avowed design was but the caprice of a moment, or perhaps a mere artifice to obtain admittance, which might else have been denied.

They had now reached the dressing room of the late Mrs. Tresilian. The fondness of a famenting-husband had not permitted any disarrangement of the furniture or apendages, which remained unchanged, therefore, from the period of her death. Its effect on the stranger was sudden and striking—he sank into a chair, turned deadly pale, and complaining of faintness, asked eagerly for water.

Apparently, however, this was but a pretext to rid himself of his companions, as, on their quick return, they found him leaning with his head on a dressing-case of ebony belonging to the deceased lady, and an audible sob, or what at least seemed such, sounded strangely to their ears. On their entering he started up hastily, as if indignant at his emotion being observed, and fixed his gaze on a glass case containing a stuffed dog of the Newfoundland species, most admirably representing the action of the living animal.

'It was a great favorite with my late mistress,' said the old steward, taking the direction of the stanger's eye, 'and the rather I believe because poor Victory once saved her only son, my dear young master, from a watery grave—I shall never forget the agony of that moment?—the parents hanging half frantic over their only child, whom I had taken up in my arms seemingly lifeless, while the poor dog stood anxiously by, watching the means I used to restore animation, as though to ask if his young favorite were indeed saved. Alas! he was saved only to be lost forever. He died on his passage to India, and my master is the last of the race. Your honor perhaps knew the family, or you would not feel so much?'

'I was once rescued from death in a similar manner,' cried the stranger, tremulously. 'But enough of this—I will not detain you. This way I think leads to the picture gallery?'

'You are right, sir,' replied the steward in some surprise; and indeed both guides began to look with wonder on one whom they could so little understand.

The gallery into which they now passed was of oblong form and considerable extent, having on one side six large windows, which, opening on the gardens and fronting the southwest admitted the full but mellowed radiance of the fast receding sunbeams. At no time perhaps could the paintings have been viewed to greater advantage; yet the stranger looked but boldly on those which would have engaged the attention of a connoisseur, chiefly regarding the family pictures, among which a portrait of the late Mrs. Tresilian was perhaps the most attractive, both on account of the beauty of the countenance, and the merit of the painting.

'Ay, she was an excellent lady!' cried Mrs. Thoms; 'had the 'squire been guided by her, Mr. Merrick, things had never come to this pass?' The steward looked keenly on her, as if to rebuke such a remark in the presence of a stranger, but Mrs. Thoms was not to be so put down. 'I speak no treason,' rejoined the pertinacious dame; 'but it is not to be thought that one who saw the taste of my late lady, and sure a kinder soul never passed from this world to a better, can look on this hour and not feel that had others been like minded—well, well! I say no more! It is a beautiful face, sir,' continued she, addressing the stranger, 'but her mind was beyond all earthly beauty.'

He replied not, but placed his hand over his eyes, as if to obtain a better view of the painting, when a door at the farther end of the gallery was suddenly opened, and a venerable man with thin, white hair flowing over his forehead, stood before them.

'The master! the master, sir!' said Mrs. Thoms, hastily, in a low voice, while the stranger, moved perhaps by the respect due to an old man in misfortune, drew back and, as if instinctively, took off the slouched hat which he had hidherto worn.

'Uncover not to me, sir,' cried Mr. Tresilian; 'my sway here verges to its close—verges, say I?—alas! what sway is mine, when I stand thus as a supplicant before a stranger?'

'Instruct me, sir,' returned the traveler, speaking with difficulty, 'how I may best aid your wishes, and you'll find me eager to profit by the knowledge.'

'I thank you, sir, for your courtesy,' replied the old man somewhat proudly; 'it is long since the voice of kindness has fallen on my ear; it is even longer since I have deserved to listen to it! I understand that you have an intention to become the purchaser of this property?'

The stranger bowed.

'I believe,' resumed Mr. Tresilian, 'that any person really desirous to become the possessor will not object to the terms on which it is offered, and I must own, sir, that, as I can no longer hope to retain it in my own hands, my sole remaining wish was that it should pass into the hands of one who would not cast forth the ancient retainers of a misguided but truly repentant man. Even for myself sir, proud as I have been deemed, and stern—ay, and unforgiving, as I continued till shame and sorrow bowed me to the dust, even I would fain ask a boon—a boon of little value to a stranger, but inestimable to me. I would entreat, sir, to be allowed to re-purchase that picture, that picture of my late wife, of one of the best and brightest of created beings. Oh that I had walked by her counsels!—then had I been spared this bitter cup which it is now my lot to drain, even to be dregs. I understand you, sir—I undertand the delicacy which assents rather by gesture than speech, and I thank you from my soul; but I have yet another request to prefer, if you will favor me by your company for a few moments.'

He waved off the attendants, who had stood doubtful whether to remain or retreat, and then led the way into a small adjoining room, fitted up as a study, and looking out on the road, which at this point, passed within view and even hail of the mansion.

'That, sir,' resumed he, pointing to a picture which hung over the fire-place, 'that is a portrait of my only son, painted at the age of eighteen, when, if ever father was proud of his offspring, that father was I! Oh what a face, what a form, was there! yet face or form was light and unworthy when compared with his noble mind! I loved him as a son, fondly, passionately loved him; and as my heir, as the destined instrument of perpetuating my name and race, I idolized him! Blind, self-willed fool that I was! I am the last of my family; my love alone surives, and by that lingering my once proud hopes are humbled to the dusting love which lives beyond the tomb, I entreat, I implore you to permit that picture to remain in my possession.'

'You start, sir, you turn away! You think, perhaps, that, emboldened by the grant of one request, I know not where to bound my desires. Listen, and judge if I have not cause to cling to the bright image of him whom I hunted forth to an untimely grave. Sir, I have already avowed the proud hopes of which my son was the object. But who can control the affections of the heart? Intent on my own ambitious schemes, in which he was no sharer, and of which indeed he knew not, I yet exposed him to the greatest of temptations in the form of a beautiful and virtuous girl, the daughter of our village curate, a man whose worth atoned not in my eyes for obscurity of birth and lack of wordly wealth, I discovered their mutual love only to prohibit all future intercourse. The prohibition came too late; they fled and were united. It was then that, listening only to the promptings of disappointed ambition, I spurned them from me. Alas! I knew even then that my fortunes were declining, and had presumptuously hoped by my son's alliance with a neighboring heiress I might be enabled to build up a new my decaying house. Mine was the sin of pride—my fall is its fitting atonement.

'But, not to tire your patience, let me briefly add that, unmoved by the supplications of her who is now a saint in heaven, I closed my heart to the oft renewed prayers of my son to forgive his first and only fault, and listened with horrid exultation to the details of the misery and destitution of the ill-fated pair, which from time to time reached my knowledge. At length the merit of my unhappy son, or rather I believe the compassion of a gentleman in whose family his wife had been governess, got him an appointment in India, for which country they embarked with their only child, but the vessel that bore them was miserably lost. From that hour I have never known peace. The innocent partner of my griefs survived the fatal intelligence but a few days, and for me the way of life has become gradually darker till I am at last what you see me—a heart-broken, ruined man! Oh that the grave could give up its dead!'

'And did you then really forgive your son?' cried the stranger, in a faltering voice.

'Did I?' exclaimed the old man. 'Alas! the hour that told me I was childless called forth that suppressed but still existing tide, which pride had quelled, and sorrow vainly bade to flow afresh!'

The stranger turned aside toward the window, and, to the astonishment of Mr. Tresilian, made a hasty and pleased signal to some persons in a traveling carriage, which immediately stopped.

'I perceived,' said he, replying to the amazed look of the old man, for speech seemed denied him, 'I perceived the approach of my family, and motioned them to come hither, for which I hope I have your forgivness.'

'Use your pleasure, sir,' replied Mr. Tresilian, rather stiffly; 'you are, or soon will be, master here. Excuse me if I claim only the privacy of my own apartment, for this night at least.'

'I would not willingly intrude on it,' replied the stranger, quitting the room only to return on the instant, 'yet am I most anxious to present to you those to whom your son was not wholly unknown.'

'How, sir?'

'You have been deceived—misinformed. Pardon me if I tresspass,' he continued, leading forward a lady and a youth about sixteen, by whom she was supported, and, as it seemed from her great emotion, not needlessly.

But the gaze of the old man was riveted on the countenance of the youth

'I am old and foolish,' he exclaimed, 'but I could think—O God! I could think that I looked upon my Hugh! Trifle not with me, sir—Heaven! can I believe my senses?—and you kneel, too!—and this lady, whom I could almost think to be she who was once Emma Leeson!'

'Bless us! bless us, O my father!' cried Hugh Tresilian, for the stranger was indeed the long-lamented son. 'We sailed not in the fated ship—we bring you wealth, and oh! much dearer, love, reverence and duty. Bless your Hugh, your Emma, and this younger Hugh, who, profiting by the errors of his father, shall dry up the tears of that loving grandfather, who looks not, I humbly hope, on the last of the family.'

BILL AND THE WIDOW.

'Wife,' said Ed. Wilbur one morning as he sat stirring his coffee with one hand and holding a plum cake on his knee with the other, and looking across the table into the bright eyes of his neat little wife, 'wouldn't it be a good joke to get Bachelor Bill Smiley to take widow Watson to Robinson's show next week?

'You can't do it, Ed.; he won't ask her, he's so awful shy. Why he came by here the other morning when I was hanging out some clothes, and he looked over the fence and spoke, but when I shook out a night gown he blushed like a girl and went away.'

'I think I can manage it,' said Ed.; 'but I'll have to fib just a little. But then it wouldn't be much harm under the circumstances, for I know she likes him and he don't dislike her; but, as you say, he's shy, 'I'll just go over to his place to borrow some bags of him, and if I don't bag him before I come back, don't kiss me for a week, Nelly.'

So saying, Ed. started, and while he is mowing the fields we take a look at Bill Smiley. He was rather a good looking fellow, though his head and whiskers showed some gray hairs, and he had got in a set of artificial teeth. But every one said he was a good soul, and so he was. He had as good a hundred-acre farm as any in Norwich, with a new house and everything comfortable, and if he wanted a wife, many a girl would have jumped at the chance like a rooster at a grasshopper. Bill was so bashful—always was—and when Susan Berry-bottle, that he was so sweet on (though he never said "boo" to her), got married to old Watson he just drew his head, like a mud turtle, into his shell, but there was no getting him out again, though it had been noticed that since Susan had become a widow he had paid more attention to his clothes and had been very regular in his attendance at the church that the fair widow attended.

'But here comes Ed. Wilbur.'

'Good morning, Mr. Smiley!'

'Good morning, Mr. Wilbur. What is the news your way?'

'Oh, nothing particular, that I know of,' said Ed., 'only Robinson's show that everybody and his girl is going to. I was over to old Sackrider's last night, and I see his son Gus has got a new buggy and was scrubbing up his harness and he's got that white faced colt of his slick as a seal. I understand he thinks of taking the Widow Watson to the show. He's been hanging round a good deal of late, but I'd just like to cut him out, I would. Susan is a nice little woman and deserves a better man than that young pup of a fellow, though I would not blame her much either if she takes him, for she must be dreadful lonesome, and then she has to let her farm out on shares and it isn't half worked, and no one else seems to have spunk enough to speak to her. By jingo! If I were a single man I'd show him a trick or two.'

So saying, Ed. borrowed some bags and started around the corner of the barn, where he had left Bill sweeping and put his ear to a knot hole and listened, knowing that the bachelor had a habit of talking to himself when anything worried him.

'Confound that young Sackrider!' said Bill, 'what business has he there, I'd like to know? Got a new buggy has he? Well so have I, and new harness, too; and his horse can't come in sight of mine; and I declare I've half a mind to —Yes, I will! I'll go this very night and ask her to go to the show with me. I'll show Ed. Wilbur that I ain't such a calf as he thinks I am, if I did let old Watson get the start of me in the first place!'

Ed. could scarce help laughing outright, but he hastily hitched the bags on his back, and with a chuckle at his success, he started home to tell the news to Nelly; and about five o'clock that evening they saw Bill go by with his horse and buggy on his way to the Widow's. He jogged along quietly thinking of the old singing school days—and what a pretty girl Susan was then—and wondering inwardly if he would have more courage now to talk up to her, until at a distance of about a mile from her house he came to a bridge—over a large creek—and it so happened just as he reached the middle of the bridge he gave a tremendous sneeze, and blew his teeth out of his mouth, and clear over the dashboard, striking on the planks they rolled over the side of the bridge and dropped into four feet of water.

Words cannot do justice to poor Bill or paint the expression of his face as he sat there—completely dumbfounded at this startling piece of ill luck. After a while he stepped out of the buggy, and getting on his hands and knees looked over into the water. 'Yes, there they were,' at the bottom, with a crowd of little fishes rubbing their noses against them and Bill wished to goodness that his nose was as close for one second. His beautiful teeth that had cost him so much, and the show coming on and no time to get another set—and the widow and young Sackrider. Well, he must try and get it somehow—and no time to lose for some one might come along and ask him what he was fooling around there for. He had no notion of spoiling his good clothes by wading in with them on, and besides, if he did that he could not go to the widow's that night, so he took a look up and down the road to see that no one was in sight, and quickly undressed himself, laying his clothes in the buggy to keep them clean. Then he ran around to the bank and waded into the almost ice-cold water; but his teeth did not chatter in his head, he only wished they could. Quietly he waded along so as not to stir up the mud and when he got to the spot he dropped under water and came up with the teeth in his hand, and replaced them in his mouth.

But hark! What noise is that? A wagon! and a little dog barking with all his might, and his horse is starting. 'Whoa! Whoa!' said Bill as he splashed and floundered out through mud and water. 'Confound the horse. Whoa! Whoa! Stop you brute stop!' But stop he would not, but went off at a spanking pace with the unfortunate bachelor after him and the little dog yelping after the bachelor. Bill was certainly in capital running costume, but though he strained every nerve he could not touch the buggy or reach the lines that were dragging on the ground. After a while his plug hat shook off the seat and the hind wheel went over it making it as flat as a pancake. Bill snatched it as he run, after jamming his fist into it, stuck it, all dusty and dimpled on his head. And now he saw the widow's house on the hill, and what, would he do! Then his coat fell out and he slipped it on, and then making a desperate spurt he clutched the back of the seat and scrambled in, and pulling the buffalo robe over his legs, stuffed the other things beneath. Now, the horse happened to be one that he got from Squire Moore, and he got it from the widow, and he took it into his head to stop at her gate which Bill had no power to prevent as he had not possession of the reins; besides he was too busy buttoning his coat up to the chin to think of doing much else. The widow heard the rattle of the wheels and looked out, and seeing that it was Mr. Smiley and that he did not offer to get out she went to the gate to see what he wanted, and there she stood chatting, with her white arms on the top of the gate, and her smiling face turned right toward him, while the cold chills ran down his shirtless back clear to his bare feet beneath the robe, and the water from his hair and the dust from his hat had combined to make some nice little streams of mud that came trickling down his face.

She asked him to come in. No, he was in a hurry, he said. Still he did not offer to go. He did not like to ask her to pick up his reins for him because he did not know what excuse to make for not doing it himself. Then he looked down the road and saw a white-faced horse coming, and, at once surmising that it was that Gus Sackrider coming, he resolved to do or die, and hurriedly told his errand. The widow would be delighted to go, of course she would. But wouldn't he come in. No, he was in a hurry, he said; he had to go on to Mr. Green's place.

'Oh,' said the widow, 'you're going to Mr. Green's are you? Why I was just going there myself to get one of the girls to help me quilt some. Just wait a second till I get my bonnet and shawl, and I'll ride with you.' And away she skipped.

'Thunder and lightning!' said Bill 'what a scrape!' and he hastily clutched his pants between his feet and was preparing to wiggle into them when a light wagon, drawn by the white faced horse driven by a boy, came along and stopped beside him. The boy held up a pair of boots with one hand and a pair of socks in the other, and just as the widow reached the gate again, he said:

'Here's your boots and socks, Mr. Smiley, that you left on the bridge when you were swimming.'

'You're mistaken,' said Bill, 'they are not mine.'

'Why,' said the boy, 'ain't you the man that had the race after the horse just now?'

'No, sir, I am not! You had better go on about your business.' Bill sighed at the loss of his Sunday boots and turning to the widow, said:

'Just pick up the lines, will you, please; this brute of a horse is forever, switching them out of my hands.' The widow complied and then he pulled one corner of the robe cautiously down and she got in.

'What a lovely evening,' said she, 'and so warm, I don't think we need the robe on us, do we?'

(You see she had a nice dress and a pair of new gaiters, and she wanted to show them.)

'Oh, my!' said Bill, earnestly, 'you'll find it chilly riding, and I wouldn't have you catch cold for the world.'

She seemed pleased at his tender care for her health, and contented with sticking one of her little feet out, with a long silk necktie over the end of it.'

'What is this, Mr. Smiley? a necktie?'

'Yes I bought it the other day and I must have left it in the buggy. Never mind it.'

'But,' she said, 'it was so careless,' and stooping over picked it up and made a motion to stuff it between them.

Bill felt her hand going down and making a dive after it clutched it in his and held it fast.

Then they went on quite a distance, he holding her soft little hand in his and wondering what he should do when they got to Green's and she wondering why he didn't say something nice to her as well as to squeeze her hand, and why his coat was buttoned up so tightly on such a warm evening and what made his face and hat so dirty, until as they were going down a little hill one of the traces came unhitched and they had to stop.

'O murder! said Bill, what next!'

'What is the matter, Mr. Smiley? said the widow, with a start that came near jerking the robe off his knees.

'One of the traces is off,' said he.

'Well, why don't you get out and put it on?'

'I can't,' said Bill; 'I've got—that is, I haven't got—on, dear, I'm so sick. What shall I do?'

'Why, Willie,' said she tenderly, 'what is the matter, do tell me?' and she gave his hand a little squeeze and looking into his pale and troubled face, she thought he was going to faint; so she got out her smelling bottle with her left hand and pulling the stopper with her teeth she stuck it to his nose.

Bill was just taking in breath for a mighty sigh, and then the pungent odor made him throw back his head so far that he lost his balance and went over the buggy. The little woman give a little scream as his big feet flew by her head; and covering her face with her hands gave way to tears or smiles—it was hard to tell which. Bill was "right side up" in a minute and was leaning over the back of the seat humbly apologizing and explaining, when Ed. Wilbur and his wife and baby drove up behind and stopped. Poor Bill felt that he would rather be shot than have Ed. Wilbur catch him in such a scrape, but there was no help for it now, so he called Ed. to him and whispered in his ear. Ed. was like to burst with suppressed laughter, but he beckoned to his wife to drive up, and after saying something to her, he helped the widow out of Bill's buggy into his and the two women went on leaving the men behind. Bill lost no time in arranging his toilet, as well as he could, and then with great persuasion Ed. got him to go home with him, and hunting up slippers and socks and getting him washed and combed, had him quite presentable when the ladies arrived. I need not tell how the story was all wormed out of bashful Bill, and how they all laughed as they set around the tea-table that night, but will conclude by saying that they went to the show together and Bill has no fear of Gus Sackrider now.

This is the story about Bill and the widow as I had it from Ed. Wilbur, and if there is anything unsatisfactory about it, ask him.

COSMOLINE

COSMOLINE is the concentrated extract of the healing properties of Petroleum, which are known. It is the most bland and soothing remedy ever used; beside possessing more healing power than any substance or compound ever prepared. It is for almost all the daily casualties which occur in household, the workshop, or on the farm, as well as for many of the diseases which afflict humanity.

FOR BURNS AND SCALDS

It is invaluable, cooling and soothing the injured parts at once, and producing a perfect cure in a very short time, without leaving any scars. For this purpose alone, it is

A BLESSING TO THE WORLD,

FOR FROSTED LIMBS, COSMOLINE is fully as efficacious as for burns and scalds, restoring a healthy action to the injured parts very quickly. It is also the best possible remedy for Chilblains and Chapped Hands.

FOR RHEUMATISM especially Inflammatory, most forms of NEURALGIA, swelling of Limbs or Glands, COSMOLINE affords in the shortest possible time the HAPPIEST RELIEF.

On CUTS AND BRUISES, the action of COSMOLINE is almost magical. If promptly applied, it prevents soreness, and the wounds heal very rapidly.

FOR PILES, it has proved to be an unequalled remedy, and many a sufferer has blessed the day of its introduction.

FOR SKIN DISEASES we can recommend it with the greatest confidence, especially for Salt Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, etc., and Teething humours.

We might go on enumerating the many other conditions for which it is unequalled, but will only add that wherever there is inflammation from any cause, COSMOLINE brings a rapid and happy relief, and will be the dependence under all circumstances. COSMOLINE is Prescribed by the best physicians, both allopathic and homeopathic. It is but nature's own production, brought into an agreeable and pleasant condition, and is as safe to use anywhere as fresh cream.

AS A MORNING APPETIZER

No other Bitters in the universe can equal them. I lack space for detailing the availability of these Bitters, but will briefly state its general effects upon the human system, as follows:

It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the blood. It prepares the Blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It infuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ of the body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operation of the digestive organs. It improves the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficacious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and langnor. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM — PURELY — ALCOHOL — CALIFORNIA — Dr. WALKER'S — VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

WILLIAMSPORT DICKINSON SEMINARY.

In your paper of the 2nd inst. there appeared a communication, signed by "H," in which he announces that "notwithstanding he is a friend of the Seminary," he shall nevertheless "withhold his countenance and support of the institution," until he receives "some valid and sensible reason," for which he is pleased to term the "ostracisation" of Professors B. B. Else and Daniel Herr, late members of the faculty, the former, owing to the hasty resignation of Rev. Dr. Spottswood, having been temporarily entrusted with the functions of President. The interval between the time at which the resignation of Dr. S. took effect, Jan. 8th, 1874, and the arrival Feb. 13th, of his successor, Rev. Edward J. Gray, was little over a month, so that the late commencement exercises which "were acknowledged to be the most satisfactory and interesting of any that the Seminary has witnessed for many years," the truth of which the wfiter of this cheerfully attests, could not be due to Mr. Else at all, as "acting President," four months before the commencement occurred. During four months President Gray himself was unfir. ingly at work, both night and day, correcting the notoriously lax discipline of the school, endeavoring to inspire the students with his own enthusiasm in the acquisition of knowledge, and to make the Seminary an institution in which parents and guardians might feel assured there were to be found superior educational facilities, wholesome discipline, and the most careful regard for the moral and physical welfare of their children and wards.

In regard to the 'ostracisation' of the Professors in question, your correspondent is unhappy in the choice of the word to express his meaning, (see Webster) but to be fair with him he evidently intends to convey the idea, that these gentlemen were the victims of an arbitrary use of power on the part of President Gray, superinduced by his jealousy of their "popularity and good name."

Now it is believed by the writer of the present article, that President Gray has never heard a word depreciating the ability or worth of Prof. Else as an instructor; upon the contrary he has known him repeatedly to speak in high terms of his qualifications. Does this indicate jealousy? But President Gray without any solicitation on his own part, was chosen by the Board of Directors for the position, although untried in it. That Board failed to perceive Prof. Else's fitness for the same, although tried in a subordinate one. If they had they would certainly have elected him immediately after the sudden and just then undersirable resignation of Dr. Spottswood, instead of looking elsewhere. Now which was the more likely to be jealous of the other, the one aspiring to the position and failing to secure it or the other who was sought after by the Board? Let any judge of human nature decide.

It only remains now to assign the true reason why President Gray did not nominate Prof. Else in the meeting of the Board of Directors, for any chair in the institution, the validity of which it is hoped that "H" will recognize. President Gray had a policy of his own marked out when he entered upon his new field of labor. He would have been unfit for the place, had it been otherwise. Upon the carrying out of this policy, he staked his reputation as an educator. Whether his policy is wise or unwise time will develop, but it was plainly Prof. Else's duty under the circumstances to co-operate with him, or resign, and thus to have spared President Gray the pain, and himself the mortification of a virtual dismissal. What General commanding an army about to enter into an engagement would want a disaffected or insubordinate Lieutenant at the head of any division, no matter how great his knowledge of military tactics? And why should Prof. Else blame President Gray for his actions towards him, when he was himself conscious of serious disagreement with him?

It is believed also that the fact of disagreement was through Prof. Else's agency, directly or indirectly, communicated to the students, which accounts largely not only for the "decidedly ugly and unkind feelings" that "has been created against his management of the seminary," but also explains, to a great extent, the motive which prompted the gold watch presentation.

"H," it is hoped will dismiss his appenhensions that the institution will not readily recover from the effects of the recent changes in the faculty, as already there are in attendance upon the Fall term, just begun, more than enough new students, on President Gray's personal account, to make up the loss of old ones who would have returned, but for these changes, and were it not for the "hard times" existing everywhere it is more than probable that the school would be more largely attended than it ever was before.

President Gray is a christian man, a ripe scholar, and an accomplished graduate of the institution, over which he presides, and it is simsimply impossible that he could be actuated, by any other motive than to make his Alma Mater second to no similar institution of learning in the country. He is an indefatigable worker, and has entered upon the duties of the Academic year with an energy and determination that cannot fail of success, and assisted, as he is, by an able, earnest and efficient corps of instructors of large experience, who are in perfect harmony with him and with each other, the seminary never had a brighter or more promising future before it than it has now.

President Gray has not aimed, nor does he desire to destroy the usefulness of either Pr of Else or Prof. Herr. The world is wide and there are other fields in which they can labor; but they are certainly acting unwisely, if they do not themselves refrain from any act, and discountenance their friends from the commission of any in the shape of newspaper correspondence, or otherwise, having a tendency to to injure the seminary. All these things will only react upon themsevles. The seminary will assuredly survive all their attacks either open or covert, for it has already passed through much severer ordeals than this. Nor can there be any doubt, that if in the future, in the judgment of the constituted authorities, the interest of the institution demand the removal of any one or more, or all connected with it at present, that no merely personal considerations will be likely to influence their action then, than beretofore. JUSTICE.

For the REPUBLICAN.

Our fellow townsmen, John C. Brick, F. B. Stover, J. A. Dinges and Col. J. T. Stuart, have returned safely from their trip to the Niagara Falls, Canada, Gennessee Falls, Watkins Glen, &c. They left Bellefonte Tuesday, August 18, in the eleven o'clock train, arrived at Lock Haven in due time, were compelled to wait two hours at that point for a train to take them to Emporium, where they arrived at six P. M., having passed through the roughest and most mountainous parts of Penna., following the Susquehanna river as far as Keating station at the mouth of Sinnemahoning creek, where the railroad leaves the river and follows that creek to its source. At Emporium they changed cars taking the Buffalo, New York & Penna. R. R., which extends from that point to Buffalo. This is a new road, passing through Cameron, Potter and McKean counties in this state, and thence via Olean, Salmanka, &c., to Buffalo, where the party arrived at 11 P. M., making the trip from Bellefonte to Buffalo in twelve hours. At this point they put up at the Tremont House, corner Seneca and Washington Streets, spent the next day seeing the sights about that city; went aboard one of the large Lake steamers, City of Duluth, bound for Duluth, Minnesota, loaded with passengers and all kinds of merchandize, farming implements, &c., &c. The boat is 250 feet in length, the cabins and state rooms splendidly furnished, everything neat and clean, equal to any hotel in the land. From Buffalo our excurtionists proceeded via New York & Erie railroad to Niagara Falls, where they visited all the points of interest in that vacinity, including Goat Island, Luna Island, Cave of the Winds, Sister Islands, Suspension Bridge, Whirlpool Rapids, Whirlpool, Clifton, Burning Spring, Queenstown Heights, Table Rock, &c. From the Falls they took cars to Lewiston, N. Y., where they took passage on the steamer City of Toronto, bound for the city of Toronto, Ont., and soon found themselves sailing on the broad waters of Lake Ontario, and were for the first time in their lives out sight of land, and sailing under colors of her Brittish Majesty. The lake, during the latter part of the voyage become quite rough causing part of the party to feel a little sick but not seriously so. On landing they found themselves at the city of Toronto, where they put up at the Mansion House on King Street. Here they spent twenty-four hours visiting the principal points of interest, such as Queen's Park, Osgood Hall, Queen's Hotel, Queen's Theatre, etc. From this point they traveled west forty miles to the city of Hamilton, situated at the western extremity of Lake Ontario. Spent several hours at this point. Witnessed a boat race between two rowing clubs. Here their course turned again eastward toward the Suspension Bridge, when they again found themselves on American soil and proceeded thence to Rochester, N. Y. and stayed there over the Sabbath. Attended church morning and evening. At this point they visited Gennessee Falls and other places of interest, and soon found themselves again aboard the cars steaming toward Canandagua, Penn Yan, Watkins Glen. Stopping at the latter place they spent several hours viewing this great national wonder. They proceeded south via. Elmira, Minnaqua Springs, to Wiliamsport where they spent the night at the Crawford House, and arrived safely at Bellefonte next day, making the trip in eight days, seeing a great many curiosities both natural and artificial, and seemed well pleased with the trip. ——During the Rebellion the Tutens kept a little canoe and at night paddled skedaddlers across to the Canada side at $2,50 per head, making enough money thereby to come down here and paddle the radical organ."—Centre Hall Reporter.

For length, breadth and general massiveness the above is the most successful falsehood we have ever heard. The publisher of this paper served in the union army during the Rebellion for a period of three years and two months. He was a member of Company "E," 5th New Hampshire, which firmed a part of the Second Army Corps. His Captain was E. G. Cummings and his regimental commander was Col. Cross. He has an honorable discharge which is open for inspection at this office. He followed the fortunes of his regiment and corps to the end, and had the honor of smelling powder and using his musket in the following engagements:

Second Bull Run, both the Fredericksburg battles, Fair Oaks, Malvern Hill, seven days before Richmond, Gettysburg, White Oaks, Antietam, and a number of engagements of lesser note. We don't make a practice of referring to the fact that we were a soldier or that we took the part of a loyal private in the Union army, but it has a tendency to put us upon our nettle when such a cowardly, abject rebel sympathizer as Fred Kurtz is, attempts to injure us by publishing that we were guilty of enacting the part which he and thousands of other cowards did during the war. Kurtz is probably the last man who should accuse others ot disloyalty.

PRESBYTERIAN HYMNAL.—J. Welch & Co., next door to Post Office, on Alleghany street, have a large lot of new Hymn Books. "The Presbyterian Hymnal" in styles to suit all purchasers. Sixteen different styles of size and binding, varying in price from seventy-five cents to five dollars a piece. These books are sold as low as they can be purchased anywhere, being the price fixed by the board of publication.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—The undersigned would hereby respectfully give notice to the craft that he intends to manufacture for exhibition at the coming annual fair of Centre County a set of rubber mounted gold lined single harness.

To competition with him, as regards the excellence, durability and finish of this set, he most respectfully and earnestly invites any and all of the fellow tradesmen from Centre Co. or any adjoining county. Respectfully,

JAS. SCHOFIELD.

——The Boston Boot and Shoe store, No. 5 Bush's Arcade, is to be merged into a co-operative union store. To make room for more goods, groceries, dry goods, &c, the large stock of boots and shoes now on hand will be sold at at cost. Now is the time for those wishing to purchase a winter supply of boots and shoes to do so at greatly reduced prices. Terms cash on delivery. This is an opportunity to purchase goods cheap that the wise will not neglect.

Best Organs for Easy Payment.

The new scheme of easy payments for Cabinet Organs, offered by the well-known Mason & Hamlin Organ Co. has these advantages:

1. An Organ may be obtained by a first payment of ten dollars or more.
2. If it does not prove satisfactory, or the party gets tired of it, he may return it after six months, having paid nothing but the rent.
3. If he concludes to purchase and pays for it in the course of a year, the whole cost to him is but five to ten per cent more than if all cash had been paid.

Dealers say this will ruin the business of organ selling as they cannot afford to compete with such terms. The Mason & Hamlin Co. know so well the quality of their organs and that scarcely any will be returned to them, that they believe they can afford such terms. Circulars can be obtained with full particulars by writing to the Company for them to Boston, New York, or Chicago.

THERE are more than ten thousand people in the United States who expect to be the happy possessors of the first grand prize in the Kentucky Gift Concert of $250,000. All of them but one will be disappointed. One will get it, for Gov. Bramlette, the manager, at Louisville, has announced that the Concert will positively take place, on Nov. 30th, 1874; that there will be no further postponement, and that the capital prize will positively be the sum stated. And if our readers want to know more of it, write to him

ANNOUNCEMENT.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—We wish to announce, through the columns of your paper, the name of Dr. J. M. Blair, of Unionville, as a candidate for the Assembly, subject to the rules of the Republican County Convention. MILESBURG.

We are authorized to announce the name of D. S. Keller, Esq., as a candidate for District Attorney, subject to decision of the Republican County Convention.

We are authorized to announce the name of John Boozer of Potter Township as a candidate for assembly.

MR. EDITOR.—It is with pleasure that we learn that George L. Zeigler, Esq., of Philipsburg, is named as a candidate for the Assembly. Knowing him to be a staunch and active Republican, a man of high repute and in every way competent to make a successful and able representative, we favor his nomination. His personal manner and address, and his sympathy for and interest in the various industrial and manufacturing interests in the county are such as to constitute him a very popular candidate. His nomination would not be paying too great deference to his claims of that part of the county, which heretofore has been left very much in the cold. We hope the Republican party when it meets in Convention the sixth of October next, will honor and strengthen itself, by nominating him for Assembly. CITIZENS OF LIBERTY.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

GOLD 1.09⅞

The Gold market was more active during the week and the price varied from 1.09⅝ to 1.09⅞. Money in the cities, is abundant and cheap. In our local market, it is said that money is in abundance, and the rates of discount as various as the character of the paper offered. The Curb stone brokers are not so numerous on Allegheny and High streets as they are on Wall and State streets, but they console themselves with being able to command the highest rates. Our ponderous friend over the way, consoles himself with being able to balance the west end of High street with the money changes in the Diamand. What he lacks in shaves he makes up in seeds. The announcement of the suspension of the banking house of McGirk & Perks, Philipsburg, last week, took many by surprise, although the knowing ones claim that it was not unexpected to them.

Mr. Perks has the sympathy of his many friends in this community, and we are glad to learn that their assets far exceed that of their liabilities and at no distant day they will be able to liquidate their current indebtedness and resume business on a more substantial footing.

Grain and Flour Markets.

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 28, 1874.

There has not been so much wheat offering during the last week, as the week previous. Prices vary with the different buyers as much as five cents per bushel. The old regeme seems to be broken up, and farmers who bring grain to town now converse with the buyers before they sell. Corn is very scarce and there is little or no Rye or Oats being offered. We quote

BUSINESS NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC TONIC SYRUP, FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION, COUGHS AND COLDS.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus effects a cure.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, &c.

The Tonic produces a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle and curing the most obstinate cases of Indigestion.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT, &c.

These pills are alterative, and produce a healthy action of the liver without the least danger, as they are free from calomel, and yet more efficacious in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption, as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of Consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic give tone and strength to the stomach, makes a good digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines for sale by all druggists. 34-5t

IF THE DRUGGIST OFFERS any kind of herb-flavored alcohol for dyspepsia, billiousness, or any other ailment, tell him that you want medicine, not a bar-room drink. Ask him for Dr. Walker's, California Bitters, the best regulating preparation known, and which you know is free from Satan Elixir. Reject all the fiery Tonics and Appetizers, and cling to that remedy. There is no medicine that compares with it. 37-4w

IF Alcoholic stimulents are taken into the blood the heart works faster, and this unnatural speed wears out the vital machinery. All intoxicating nostrums advertised as tonics, renovators, &c., produce this disastrous effect, and should be rejected. Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vinegar Bitters—an Invigorant without the curse of alcohol—is everywhere supplanting these poisons. 37—4w

DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA! DYSPEPSIA!

Dyspepsia is the most perplexing of all human ailments. Its symptoms are almost infinite in their variety, and the forlorn and despondent victims of the disease often fancy themselves the prey, in turn, of every known malady. This is due, in part, to the close sympathy which exists between the stomach and the brain, and in part also to the fact that any disturbance of the digestive function necessarily disorders the liver, the bowls and the nervous system, and effects, to some extent, the quality of the blood.

E F. Kunkle's Bitter Wine of Iron a sure cure. This is not a new preparation, to be tried and found wanting; it has been prescribed daily for many years in the practice of eminent physicians with unparalleled success; it is not expected or intended to cure all the diseases to which the human family is subject, but is warranted to cure Dyspepsia in its most obstinate form. Kunkle's Bitter Wine of Iron never fails to cure. Symptoms of Dyspepsia are loss of appetite, wind and rising of the food, dryness of the mouth, heartburn, distension of the stomach and bowels, constipation headache, dizziness, sleeplessness and low spirits. Try the great remedy and be convinced of its merits. Get the genuine. Take only Kunkle's which is put only in $1 bottles. Depot, 259 North Ninth Street Philadelphia.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

AT PRIVATE SALE.

A valuable farm containing 215 acres, situate within one mile of Milesburg, and three miles of Bellefonte, at the junction of the Bald Eagle Valley and Snow Shoe railroads, near the depot, Schools, Churches, Post office, Mills, etc. The lands are FREE from STONE, level, well fenced, and under a good state of cultivation. A valuable vein of is on the farm, and a village is growing up around it, which gives a fair prospect of an increase in value before long. The Philipsburg turnpike runs through it for a distance of ¼ of a mile rendering a large strip on each side available for house lots, from which the entire price of the farm might be realized, lots having sold heretofore for $100 apiece. The farm is well watered, having water in all the fields, good wells at the house and barn with pumps all in good order. There also are 50 acres of good

PINE AND OAK TIMBER.

The land has a southern exposure and is therefore very early. There are two houses on the farm, both facing the turnpike. One containing five rooms on the first floor with Hall and five on the second and back Kitchen, with room over-head. Connected with this house is a good log barn, ice house and other out buildings. On the other side of the road is the other house containing eight rooms with good barn and out buildings. This farm could be divided into two parts, and will be if purchasers so desire, making one containing 130 acres with the large house, and the other containing 36 acres with the small house. Terms easy. Inquire of James L. Sommerville, or R. Y. Downing, or at the office of the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN. 38 tf.

HAVE YOU TRIED JURUBEBA?
ARE YOU
Weak, Nervous or Debilitated?

Are you so Languid that any exertion requires more of an effort than you feel capable of making?

Then try JURUBEBA, the wonderful tonic and invigorator, which acts so beneficially on the secretive organs as to impart vigor to all the vital forces.

It is no alcoholic appetizer, which stimulates for a short time, only to let the sufferer fall to a lower depth of misery, but it is a vegetable tonic acting directly on the liver and spleen.

It regulates the Bowels, quiets the nerves, and gives such a healthy tone to the whole system as to soon make the invalid feel like a new person.

Its operation is not violent, but is characterized by great gentleness; the patient experiences no sudden change, no marked results, but gradually his troubles

"Fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And silently steal away."

This is no new and untried discovery, but has been long used with wonderful remedial results, and is pronounced by the highest medical authorities, "the most powerful tonic and alternative known."

Ask your druggist for it.

HOME TESTIMONY.

We give below a few certificates out of the many received to show the reputation of this Liniment at home. The first is from the well-known iron firm of Valentine & Co.

BELLEFONTE FORGES, June 10th, 1874.

This is to certify to whom it may concern that we have used Tyson's Liniment, in cases of Sweeny and other diseases, on a valuable mule which we had given up as entirely useless, and after a few applications the mule was entirely cured, and is now in full work and as good as he ever was.
VALENTINE & CO.

BELLEFONTE, June 10th, 1874.

E. TYSON—Dear Sir:—I hereby acknowledge the value of your Universal Liniment. A valuable mare of mine was badly lamed in the pasture joint. I tried numerous remedies. She grew worse all the time, and I found would become permanently worthless. Your Liniment was recommended to me, and after the use of a single bottle she was entirely cured. I would cheerfully recommend it as an invaluable remedy. L. LOSE.

BELLEFONTE, June, 1874.

I can cheerfully recommend the Liniment made by Mr. Tyson, having used it for a bruised foot, which it cured effectually. P. B. WILSON.

MESSRS. TYSON & CO.—Gents:—I have been suffering with a severe Rheumatism in my shoulder for several years, the pain at times being almost unbearable. Having tried many remedies without getting relief, I was at first reluctant to try your Universal Liniment, but am happy to say that, having at last concluded to try it, I secured immediate relief, and after using about one-third of a bottle was entirely cured. Please send me another bottle, as I would not be without it. MRS. C. GOSSLE.

BELLEFONTE, PA., June 15th, 1874.

This is to certify that I had my shoulder and arm badly sprained while in the act of shoeing a mule, and that I was perfectly cured in forty-eight hours by using one bottle of Tyson's Liniment. I can recommend this Liniment as superior to any I have ever used. P. BENJ. SCHROCK.

BELLEFONTE, June 16th, 1874.

This is to certify that I had Rheumatic pains in my arms, and after having applied Tyson's Universal Liniment once the pain disappeared. F. MULLEN.

MESSRS. TYSON & CO.:—I derived great benefit and relief from the use of Tyson's Liniment in a case of Rheumatism affecting my arm and shoulder, and cheerfully recommend its use to those suffering from like causes. S. H. YOCUM.

BELLEFONTE, June 25th, 1874.

MR. E. TYSON—Dear Sir:—Since writing you of the benefit of your Liniment some days since, I have had another case that attests its value to a much greater degree than the former. One of the most valuable horses in my stable became so lame in the fore-shoulder that I could not use him. In fact, he was so bad that I feared I would lose the use of him entirely. He was completely worthless, and after working for days to ascertain the cause, and failing, I used your Liniment, rubbing his shoulder well with it, until a couple of bottles were used, when, to my surprise and gratification, he became fit to work, and is now entirely well. ISAAC LOSE, SR.

Agricultural.

NOTE.—We earnestly desire that this department of our paper shall be made as useful as possible to our Agricultural friends, and therefore extend a cordial invitation to all parties interested, to favor us with contributions. Individuals who have made useful experiments and yet do not feel competent to write them out in form for publication, if they will favor us with the results we will take pleasure in putting them in proper shape.

Isolation.

The farmer's family has suffered more from isolation than from all other causes combined. Happily there are many indications of a change in this respect. The farmer has at last seen the necessity of co-operation. Woman is naturally more social than man, and it is so difficult for her to be happy without pleasant society, that it is not too much to say that many of the women of the farm house look to the Grange as a good angel come to deliver them from a weary bondage. We have too many farmers who look upon their calling as only a means to a most unworthy end; that of merely making money enough to allow them to escape from its precincts as speedily as possible. They are the traitors who teach the young folks that anything is better and more respectable than farming. The Grange might counteract these miserable teachings. Its principles rightly understood and applied, will not only increase the farmer's income, but surround him with more of the comforts of life. But what is far more cheerful it can be made the nucleus for society and mental improvement; libraries, essays, lectures, discussions, and other literary exercises, with music and pleasant conversation should be its natural outgrowth. These would not fail to quicken and strengthen the graceful amenities of life, till our rural population shall be recognized by all as the very best representative of our grand Republic. It will indeed be a sad ending to this society if an ambitious few shall convert its meetings into political harangues and intrigues.—[Ohio Farmer.

Profitable Business for Women.

One of the most profitable, as well as interesting kinds of business for a woman, is the care of bees. In a recent agricultural report it is stated that one lady bought four hives for $10, and in five years she was offered $1,500 for her stock, and refused it as not enough. In addition to this increase of her capital in one of these five years she sold twenty-two hives and 430 pounds of honey. It is also stated that in five years one man, from six colonies of bees to start with, cleared 8,000 pounds of honey and fifty-four colonies. When properly instructed, almost any woman in the city, as easily as in the country, can manage bees, and make more profit than in any other method demanding so little time and labor. But in the modes ordinarily practiced few can make any great profit in this employment. It is hoped a time is at hand when every woman will be trained to some employment by which she can secure herself an independent home and means to support a family, in case she does not marry or is left a widow, with herself and family to support.—American Woman's Home.

Measuring Hay.

To measure the contents of a stack of hay, tapering to a point from the ground, measure the width half way between the ground and the peak of the stack. Then multiply that by the height from the ground to the point where the width was measured. If these measurements are feet, the sum found is the cubic feet in the stack. If the hay is timothy, orchard grass, millet or Hungarian, 500 feet will make a ton, or a cube eight feet each way. If the stack is very solid, and was cut when dead ripe, 350 feet will make a ton, or a cube of seven feet each way. If the hay is mixed with clover, about 700 feet, or a cube of nine feet each way, will make a ton. If it is all clover, or a light meadow grass, or red top, 800 feet will be required to weigh a ton, unless it is pressed very hard, when some allowance must be made. These estimates are made from notes of a great many stacks and mows of various kinds, and will give a fair average.

CURE FOR FISTULA OR POLE EVIL.—The New York Tribune gives the following recipe: Forty grains iodine, 20 drops of oil cedar, 30 drops oil sassafras, 50 drops spirits turpentine, 1 ounce gum euphorbium, half ounce Spanish flies; cut the iodine with alcohol; mix all together; then stir in hog's lard to the desired thickness. Then cut away the hair over the swelling with sharp scissors for some inches around, even if it has gone into a running ulcer, and spread the salve with a small mop. Every second or third day wash off clean with strong soapsuds, and repeat the application. A permanent cure may be expected in a short time, unless the treatment has been too long deferred.

KEEPING BUTTER FRESH.—The best way to keep butter that is prime is to exclude the air from it and put it in a cool, sweet place; but the first is the most important. If the butter is in a pail, tub, or jar, cover it one or two inches with the strongest brine, made from the best Onondaga butter salt. Remember, it will not do to simply cover it with salt; the air will pass through the salt, but not through the brine. If the package has a tight-fitting cover, so much the better. The best butter exposed to the air, in the summer, will not keep perfect for twenty-four hours. Butter for the family should be kept constantly under brine.—Live Stock Journal.

TO CAN PEACHES, PEARS, AND APRICOTS.—As you peel, halve, and seed them, drop them into cold water to prevent discoloration. Prepare your syrup in the proportion of one pound of white sugar to a quart of water; place your syrup on the fire, let it boil five minutes, then put in your fruit. Let it remain in the hot syrup until it is thoroughly heated through, then fill your pans with the hot fruit; then pour on the syrup. Screw them up immediately, each one as you fill, as firmly as you can with the hands, and as they cool off apply the wrench. This we call a very simple process. We have followed the above recipe for years, and have never lost a jar.

Miscellaneous.

George Washington's Election.

On a Tuesday morning, the 14th of April, 1784, a venerable old gentleman, with fine eyes, an amiable countenance, and long white locks, rode into the lawn of Mount Vernon, coming from Alexandria. Two gentlemen of the latter town accompanied him. It was between 10 and 11 o'clock. A negro man sallied out to take the nags, and the old gentleman, entering the mansion was received by Mrs. Washington.

'Why, Mr, Thompson,' said the good lady, 'where are from, and how are your people?'

From New York, madame,' answered the old man. 'I came to Mount Vernon upon a good errand, for the country, at least. The General has been elected President of the United States under the new constitution, and I am the bearer of the happy tidings in a letter from John Langdon, the President of the Senate.'

The General was out visiting his farm however, and the guests were entertained for two or three hours, as we take care of our visitors in the country nowdays. A glass of the General's Madeira, imported in the cask, was probably not the worst provisions made for them, and the cheerful gossip of Mrs. Washington, who had known Mr. Thompson and visited his house in Philadelphia, helped to enliven the time. This grave and respectful old man was the link between the new government at New York and the new magistrate at Mt. Vernon. Charles Thompson had been the Secretary, through all its eventful career, of the Continental Congress which had directed the cause of the colonies from desultory revolt to independence and to union, and now he had ridden over the long and difficult roads to appraise the first President of the republic, of the wishes of his countrymen. At one o'clock General Washington rode into the lawn of Mt. Vernon in appearance what Curtis, his adopted son, had described: 'An old gentleman riding alone, in plain drab clothes, a broad-brimmed white hat, a hickory switch in his hand, and carrying an umbrella with a long staff which is attached to his saddle-bow.' The umbrella was used to shelter him from the sun for his skin was tender and easily effected by its rays. Washington greeted Mr. Thompson with grave cordiality, as was his wont, inquiring for his family, divining already the object of his visit, broke the seal of John Langdon's official letter. Dinner followed, and while visitors retired to converse or stroll about the grounds, the President elect wrote a letter to the President of the Senate, and sent it forthwith to the post-office at Alexandria by a servant. The letter was as follows:—

"MT. VERNON, April 14th, 1874.

"Sir: I had the honor to receive your official communication, by the hand of Mr. Senator Thompson about 1 o'clock this day. Having concluded to obey the important and flattering call of my country, and having been impressed with the idea of the expediency of my being with Congress at as early a period as possible I propose to commence my journey on Thursday morning, which will be the day after to-morrow."

This done, the rest of the day passed in conferences between Washington and his wife in the preparation of his baggage for the not unexpected journey, while meantime, the distinguished guest was amused by the young official household, in the library and grounds. There was another female dear to the newly elected President, and he kept her in filial remembrance at the very moment of his greatest promotion. It was growing late in the evening of the day on which our story opens, when Washington mounted his horse, and followed by his man Billy, rode off into the woods of Virginia with speed. His destination was Fredericksburg, nearly forty miles away, with two ferries between—one at Occoquan, the other at Rappahannock. His purpose was to see his old mother, now about 80 years of age and drawing near the grave, but he could not feel equal to the responsibility of his great office until he should receive her blessing. Few candidates for the Presidency in our day would leave a warm mansion filled with congratulating friends, to ride all night through the chilly April mists, to say adieu to an old woman. But thus piously the administration of Washington began. He passed old Pobick church, of which he was a vestry man, soon to tumble to ruins—crossed the roaring Occoquan, and by the deep and picturesque gorge, were passed the waters of the future Bull Run, and by night he saw the old churches by Acquia and Potomac rise against the sky, he saw the dacaying seaport of Dumries. In the morning he was at Fredericksburg and his mother was in his arms. Marches, perils, victories, honors, power, surrendered to that piteous look of hopeless love, too deep for pride to show through his tears, and the President of the new state was to her a new born babe. He was just in time, for she had but a short season of summer to live, and, like many dying mothers, life seemed upheld, at forescore and five, by waiting love for him to come. History is ceremonious as to what passed between them, but the parting was solemn and touching like the event. "You will see me no more," she added; "my great age and disease warn me that I shall not be long in this world. But go, George to fulfill the destiny which heaven appears to assign to you. Go, my son, and may Heaven's and your mother's blessing be with you always."

Passing from that dear pathetic presence, the President elect, perhaps, did not hear the plaudits of the people in the streets of Fredericksburg. He rode all day by the road he had come, and reached Mount Vernon before evening, having exhibited his power of endurance at the age of 57, by riding eighty miles in 24 hours. His good wife had made all ready, the equipage and baggage were at the door the next morning, and leaving Mrs. Washington and most of the household behind, he set out for New York at 10 o'clock on Thursday, the 19th of April, accompanied by Thompson and Humphreys. The new state was waiting anxiously for its magistrate.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR
which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

PREPARED BY
SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston, Mass.,
And sold by Druggists and Dealers generally.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation, which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR-DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.
Price One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye.
FOR THE WHISKERS.
As our Renewer in many cases requires too long a time, and too much care, to restore gray or faded Whiskers, we have prepared this dye, in one preparation, which will quickly and effectually accomplish this result. It is easily applied, and produces a color which will neither rub nor wash off. Sold by all Druggists. Price Fifty Cents.

MEDICAL.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.
INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS.—While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM

OR

WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectorial diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION.—The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from others, and all of the same cheering import. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

Address all orders to JOHN F. HENRY, CURRAN & CO., 8 and 9 College Place, New York.

METROPOLITAN MED. CO., Proprietors.

EGYPTIAN

Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole; to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyptian Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

HOLLOWAY'S

Pills and Ointment

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PHYSICIAN.

THE GRAND PRINCIPLE that operates in these wonderful medicines is the power that they possess in purifying the turbid blood and expelling corrupt humors from the system.

Both the ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, Burns, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Fistula, Gout, Limbago, Mercurial Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Ringworms, Salt Rheums, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Swelled Glands, Sore Legs, Sore Breasts, Sore Heads, Sore Throats, Sores of all kinds, Sprains, Stiff Joints, Tetter, Ulcers, Venereal sores, Wounds of all kinds.

USE HOLLOWAY'S EXPECTORANT for the absolute cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest, and all affections of the Pulminary nature.

CAUTION.

Be careful and see that each bottle has the Holloway and Co. trade mark on it.

Price, 25cts., 62cts., and $1.00; great saving in buying large sizes.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

ELAINE

AS AN ILLUMINATOR.

WHY IT IS THE SAFEST.

ELAINE will not explode while burning in a lamp, nor in any other way, as it does not contain any of the explosive compounds so frequently met with in the ordinary oil for illuminating. A lamp, filled with ELAINE, if upset or accidently broken, will not explode or burn. There is no position in which you can put a lamp filled with ELAINE, for common use, in which it will explode. As no other illuminator has such advantages of safety, ELAINE IS CERTAINLY THE SAFEST FAMILY ILLUMINATING OIL KNOWN.

——Isaac Haupt and Jesse Klinger shot three dozen pigeons and a squirrel one day last week. They challenge any democrat to beat that.

——Hon. James Millikin returned to Bellefonte on Friday, after several month's sojourn among the watering places and the eastern cities.

——A Bellefonte man well posted in arithmetic says there is one cow, one hog and one goose daily on our streets for every man, woman and child in town.

——Mr. Johnson of Hollidaysburg cousin of our postmaster, J. T. Johnson, was in town last Friday. He reports the iron business very dull in Hollidaysburg.

——If the Gazette & Bulletin is to be relied on, lawyers Kress and Hipple of Lock Haven are knocking the trover and conversive usages into Smithereens.

——Eight companies of infantry and two of cavalry will meet in Tyrone for parade and inspection on the 29th inst. Governor Hartranft, General Beaver and other officials will be present.

——And now the editor of the Watchman has been presented with a basket of potatoes. Potatoes, it is said, feed the brain, and in all conscience's sake we hope he'll eat a few of them.

——When P. Gray Meek entered the Raftman's Journal office the other day, Mr. Row, the editor, stopped scribbling long enough to shake hands and ask, "What are you engaged in at Bellefonte, Mr. Meek?" "On the Watchman," was the innocent reply. Strange that the Clearfield journalist had never heard of the ex-candidate for Senator.

——Our local papers are beginning to publish lists of the aspirants to the office of County Superintendent. The following parties, we understand, have expressed a willingness to servo the people in that capacity:

Henry Meyer, W. A. Tobias, W. C. Heinley, Michael Meyers and John Kichline, with several districts to be heard from.

——We received the following a few days ago from a friend which we give place in our columns. "A little nephew of a friend of mine, went to the Episcopal church a few Sunday ago for the first time, and witnessed a christening, then the same day went to a wedding. The next Sabbath he stayed at home and concluded to get up a meeting of his own. After the usual preliminaries, reading and singing, he proceeded to make the long prayer, trying to repeat as near as he could what he had heard. In the course of his prayer he said: 'O, Lord, take the children and bless them, and Mr. Allen take Mary Anna by the hand and lead her away to everlasting torment.'"

——The basket pic-nic held by the Patrons of Husbandry in Leech's Grove, last Thursday, was a grand affair, on as grand a scale as any pic-nic that ever was held in Centre County. There were fully three thousand people present from this and adjoining counties. Good order and harmony prevailed. Among all this large concourse of people we did not see during the whole day any disorderly conduct, or hear an angry word. We arrived upon the ground about eleven o'clock. The grove was then alive with people. The sturdy farmers of Centre County with their wives and daughters dressed in their holiday dress, and intent upon a day of rare enjoyment, free from the cares and perplexities of business, the eager heart felt salutations of friends that were evidently meeting then and there for the first time in months, the eager hurrying to and fro, the joyous "how are you," from every side as we passed along through the dense crowd lining both sides of the road, a little in the distance young promanaders in couples walking together, soft eyes looking love to eyes which spake again, together with the gambles of little children with their merry laugh so joyous and free, presented one of the prettiest sights we ever witnessed. We secured our team and mingled with the crowd. There was a speakers stand erected a short distance from the road, and a meeting organized by the choice of Christian Dale, Sen., as President. Two secretaries were chosen, Christian Dale, jr., of Logan Grange 109, and David H. Young of Washington Grange, 157. The following Vice Presidents were elected:

W. G. Campbell of Victor, 159; John Rishel of Progress, 96; M. P. Weaver, of Logan, 109; R. G. Brett of Centre, 254; Christian Alexander of Providence, 217; A. J. Thompson of Half Moon, 290; Geo. Taylor of Bale Eagle, 151; James McClintick of Spring Mills, 158; John Musser, Potter; Robert McKnight Benner, 107: Jacob Smith; Henry P. Sankey of Fairview, 296; C. T. Thompson of Half Moon, 290; Jacob Taylor of Union, 325. After the meeting was organized prayer was offered by the Rev. A. J. Hartsock, followed by the address of welcome by Leonard Rhone, Esq.; Deputy Pennsylvania State Grange, which we will give in full next week.

John A. Hunter then made a few remarks. Among other things he said, the time has come to do our own talking, our own thinking, and our own feeling. We wage war against middle men, and peddlers, and we want to put that class of men out of the way. Why is it that our boys find farming distasteful and leave the farm as soon as they can? The fact is our boys are over-worked. We do not take the pains we should to make home attractive to them. We do not give them reading matter enough. Make our homes pleasant, make them interested in home and they'll stay at home. If I had twenty sons I would want nineteen of them grangers—and the other one too.

The dinner hour had now arrived, and we must here thank our friends for the numerous kindly invitations we had to dine which we were compelled to decline. We appreciate the kind hospitality all the same which prompted them. Mr. Felix Dale secured a promise from us that we would dine with him which we did, enjoying a sumptous repast fit for a king, which reminded us that the lady had not lost anything in the art of cooking, while attending the grange meeting.

At half past one the procession formed. James F. Weaver, Chief Marshal; Geo M. Boal, Aid. The following grangers were represented in the procession:

Progress, No. 96 of Potter twp.; Benner, No. 107 of Benner twp.; Logan, No. 109 of Spring twp.; Bald Eagle, No. 151 of Boggs twp.; Washington, No. 157 of Ferguson twp.; Spring Mills, No. 158 of Gregg twp.; Victor, No. 159 of Harris twp.; Providence, No. 217 of Penn twp.; Marrion, No. 223 of Marrion twp.; Centre, No. 254 of Ferguson twp.; Excelsior, No. 283 of Patton twp.; Half Moon, No. 290 of Half Moon twp.; Fairview, No. 296 of Potter twp; Howard, No. 297 of Howard twp.; Union, No. 325 of Union twp.; Walker, of Walker twp.

The procession was large and imposing, the lady members of the order marching with the brothers.

There were two bands of music, the Boalsburg Band, 15 pieces, Israel Young leader, and the Pine Grove Band, 16 pieces, Ellis Berchfield, leader.

After the procession we gathered again around the speakers stand, where we were entertained with excellent vocal music. J. H, Keller of Victor Grange 159, then read the declaration of principles of the order of the Patrons, after which James H. Weaver was called to the stand and made a lengthy speach. He said that the order now numbered 1,500,000 and was increasing over 500 grangers a month. One of their chief principles was the elevation of labor. We intend to bind good men together, we want the great principles of agriculture understood. We want to bind together the farmers in one great brotherhood, and to promote education. He thought they could do without the middle men; that the farmers were intelligent enough to know what machines they wanted without the help of smart and crafty agents. We are at war with monopolies, whether they are banks or railroads, when they become oppressive. He thought there ought to be more farmers in Congress and in our State Legislature, and fewer lawyers, bank presidents and railroad men. He claimed that one of the missions of the order was to bring up the price of farm labor, for he said, the farmer has to work more hours than the mechanics and get less pay.

Mr. Weaver's speach lasted about one hour, but as it was getting late for one so far from home we did not stop to see or hear more. We came away well pleased with the day's entertainment, and fully of the opinion that Grangers of Centre County mean business, and wondering whether any of those apparently enthusiastic men could in the coming election vote for those kings of the monopolists, L. A. Mackey, and Coffee Pot Wallace.

——One of Valentine's mules was permanently disabled last Saturday by falling off a bridge.

——This is a free country and anybody is at liberty to get into the carriage from the front door step, say good-bye to the family, drive 'round to the alley and get a package of champagne from the stable without letting the old folk know it, before starting for a drive over the mountains for their health.

——The County Fair, opens on Tuesday next and we suppose the week will be a busy, pleasant and interesting one, for most everybody. We will be glad to see any of our friends from the Country and hope they will not forget to pay a friendly call at the REPUBLICAN Office. This is not a dun.

——The associate editor of the Watchman sometimes originates a joke that is not to be sneezed at. But the most grotesque of all of them, we think, appeared in the last number. Here it is:

If the democrats do their duty, and we believe they will, Centre County will give 900 majority for their state and county ticket.—Coffins of all styles and prices, always on hand and made, to order at———.

——These are charming Indian summer days, bright, cheerful and inspiring, but the evenings and nights are cool and we need a change of clothing, or more indoor life and bed cover. There is a certain dampness and malaria in the night air, and the sudden changes of twenty or thirty degrees in twenty four hours, and more than this at times, is not good for the health and requires extra vigilance both in food and clothing.

——We commend Mr. Samuel Williams to good people of West Chester, whether he has gone to open a furniture establishment. Mr. Williams leaves many warm friends in Bellefonte who wish him abundant success in his new home.

We recommend him as an excellent painter, glazier, sign writer and paper hanger. We have employed him when he was a resident of this place, and in common with hundreds of others are glad to give our testimony as to the excellence of his work.

—— The Reporter last week kindly apologizes to our European subscribers for our neglect to give our opinion of Prof. Tyndall's address which was very kind. We appreciate such little acts of kindness by our generous hearted contemporary. And Kurtz, must have sent a copy of his paper to Bill von Hohenzollern, our friend at Berlin, for we notice that our exchange is minus the patent outside, for which we are very sorry, we always read the outside of his paper with so much interest.

——The Gazette & Bulletin men of Williamsport have begun to send us their weekly paper. We don't know what strange notion has prompted them to this action, but we suppose that since they have lost their excellent correspondent, Mr. John C. Henry, that they propose to exchange with us in order to keep the run of Centre county news, to all of which we are agreed. The weekly Gazette & Bulletin is a good, large paper, well edited and handsomely printed.

——We are compelled to stop and wonder what was the matter with editor Kurtz last week. We saw him on Wednesday at the conferees' meeting, looking very well, and, to all appearances, sober and clothed in his right mind. This was Wednesday, remember; his paper was published on Thursday and all the report it contained of the Democratic conference was the following:

On Friday the Judicial, Congressional and Senatorial conferences meet in Bellefonte. We expect short work, harmony and excellent nominations.

We are sure the conference met on Wednesday, and that Fred Kurtz was present. We are also positive that the Reporter came out on Thursday, and we have hunted it from beginning to end and the above is all the report he has made of the conference. We have never heard that Kurtz was a drinking man, but he must certainly have been muddled or else he's losing his mind.

To SCHOOL DIRECTORS.—School officers know very well that book agents and publishers will sometimes take unfair advantages of their customers. We have a case in point and want to put every school director in this county (at least) on his guard. Several years ago, the agents of the "Spencerian Copy Books" introduced that system of writing into many of the schools of this county. The system in itself is considered about as good as any other and the first copy-books were almost models; the engraving was good and the paper excellent. At the present time the Spencerian books are made of the most worthless kind of paper. Writing on it leaves about the same result as writing on a clean piece of blotting-paper, with the exception that in the former the ink goes clear through and so saturates the reverse side that it is next to impossible to write on it at all. The cover of the book is very flimsy and tears as easily as tissue paper. We could furnish from this office paper as good as is used in them for three cents a book, including the cover, and lose nothing; while if we had to buy it in quantities that the publishers of the books are justified in doing we believe we could supply it at a fifth per cent off even that figure. One of those books complete costs not more than five cents, and they are retailed for twenty cents. Remember that no blame is attached to our local traders; they are bound to sell them at that price. We only want the directors to understand these facts: 1, that the paper used in the Spencerian copy books is totally unfit for children to learn to write on; 2, that somebody makes 300 per cent on every book sold; 3, that there are other systems of penmanship equal to the Spencerian that are published on good paper.

SUSPICIOUS.—The Lewisburg Chronicle says that several weeks ago, four men and a little boy were camping in Brush Valley Narrows. When they wanted provisions, two of the men would sally forth, while the other two remained with the little boy. They frequently purchased groceries of Mr, G. W. Himmelreich, at Cowan. They inquired for daily papers, but never gave any intimation of why they wanted them, who they were, or why they so closely guarded the little boy, never allowing him to accompany them during their trips to the valley. A week or so ago, they, like the Arabs, "folded their tents and silently stole away." Since that time, the bills offering a reward of $20,000 for the recovery of little Charlie B. Ross, have been posted up through the country and it is remarkable how the description of the men answer to that on the bill. The little boy was seen at different times by berry pickers, who say that he was about the age, and description of Charlie B. Ross was dressed with good clothes, was a bright little fellow, and seemed entirely out of place with his company. One of our citizens went out that way on detective duty, but finding they had left gave up the search, and has since written to Pinkerton's detectives about them.

——A CARD TO THE CITIZENS OF CENTRE CO.—The undersigned having been appointed agent for the American Bible Society, desires through the columns of this paper to introduce himself to its many readers. It is the aim of the society to place the Bible in every family in the United States, as well as to send it throughout the world. To accomplish this great work money and labor must be expended. The Centre Co. Bible Society, auxiliary to the American Bible Society, has already begun its work of canvassing its territory, distributing Bibles and soliciting funds. I expect to call upon you in your houses, carrying with me Bibles and Testaments at very low prices, and will also call upon you to help this great cause in which we are all interested. Especially do I invite the attention of the Pastors of the different congregations to this matter. Present it to your people in its proper light and importance.

REV. H. C. GALBRAITH,
Agent American Bible Society.

——As a couple of ladies were enjoying a moonlight promenade along Linn street the other evening, they were accosted by a couple of drunken rowdies, who were riding through the street, by the following inquiry: "Say, there, (hic,) don't yer want a (hic,) drink? Got some of the (hic,) pure article, (hic,) have sum?" As this mess of gibberish was delivered, they approached the ladies on the sidewalk and drew rein. The ladies, of course, didn't care to partake of the vile beverage, and being badly frightened, they thought discretion the better part of valor, and so drawing their shawls tightly about their persons, and giving their bonnets an extra twitch, they scooted for home with tremendous strides, having lost all pleasure in their moonlight wanderings. They have since resolved, never to appear upon the public high-way again, without an escort of the masculine persuasion.

——We hear of a country school teacher in this county who has taught three terms in one place without receiving as yet a dollar of his pay. We advise the young man to have himself arrested for living "without any visible means of support," and perhaps that will bring the money.

——BALLOON ASCENSION.—If we should judge from the programme the Centre Co. Fair will be more attractive this year than usual, especially the amusement department. On Wednesday, base ball, foot race, mule race and horse trotting. Thursday, fat man's race, corn-husking and trotting. Friday, trotting and balloon ascension from the fair grounds during the afternoon. The prospects are that the fair will be the largest and most successful exhibition ever held in Centre County.

——Chief Fannon, of the police force has been the subject of some criticism by our over-the-way cotemporary which we think is too severe and, perhaps, somewhat unjust. Fannon, is as brave as a lion and almost a Hercules physically. He is generally on hand at disturbances except when several of them take place at the same time in different localities. These emergencies he provides against by a judicious distribution of his valiant force. We really never heard anybody find fault with his attention to his official duties except the Watchman, but we really did think that he was overdoing the business. Like Scott Briggs, he'd sacrifice vitcuals and pleasure to attend a bit of a muss, and he generally sails in and quells the riot before they get fairly under headway.

——We had the pleasure of a call from Judge Williams of Tioga county on Friday. This was his first visit to Bellefonte although he has many warm friends living in this county. The Judge lives next door to the Wellsboro bank that was recently robbed and his family suffered terribly from fright on the night of that robbery. It appears that the burglars entered the cashier's house and handcuffed and gagged the whole family, excepting an old an infirm lady who swooned away with terror and was left by the villians in a dying condition as they supposed, while they took the cashier to the bank and by threats of torture compelled him to unlock the safe. Some time after they had left with their booty, the aged lady recovered consciousness and, finding the helpless condition the rest of the family was in, managed to get down stairs and over to the Judge's, where she aroused the family. The pitiable sight of the woman and children lying helplessly on the floor and suffering such tortures, had such an affect on the Judge's estimable lady that she suffered greatly from nervous prostration for many days afterward. After she had recovered sufficiently, the Judge and his family traveled considerably over the state and took Bellefonte in the route. His friends were glad to see him and did their best to make his sojourn pleasant. He left on Friday evening for Lock Haven.

PIC-NIC.—By the people of Jacksonville. One of the most successful gatherings in the interest of Sabbath Schools was witnessed on Saturday last. The German Reform and Presbyterian Sabbath Schools united, obtained the Salona Band, and had a very pleasant time of it. The morning was cloudy and kept the procession back later than was intended, but not enough to mar the pleasures of the day. The ground selected was the old camp ground, above Howard. The procession consisted of about sixty carriages, extending nearly a half a mile in length, leaving Jacksonville, about half past nine, led by the Band. The joy of the children know no bounds as the wended their way from Nittany to Bald Eagle Valley, while the music was echoing among the hills. The schools arrived on the ground about eleven o'clock. The exercises consisted in singing, speaking and eating a superb dinnner. Nittany Valley is a good place for chickens and turkeys and they were in abundance. The cloth was spread on the ground, and they ate dinner in the old style. The whole affair passed off pleasantly and without accident, and will be long and very pleasantly remembered. The Salona Band performed its part very acceptably. This Band is rapidly growing in public esteem.

IN MEMORY OF JOHN MORAN.—To the Noble Grand, Vice Grand, Officers and Brothers:

Whereas,—Centre County Lodge No. 152, Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Pennsylvania, has sustained an irreparable loss in the sad and sudden death of our late Brother John Moran, therefore be it resolved:

1st,—That in the death of Brother Moran we have lost a worthy member of our order, a true and upright man, a useful citizen and a faithful friend.

2d,—That Brother Moran, from practical example, was a shining light of true Odd-Fellowship, being a dutiful son, a faithful husband, an indulgent father and an untiring friend to the orphan.

3d,—That if heartfelt sympathy can alleviate human sorrow, that his surviving relatives have our deep and lasting sympathy.

4th,—That in respect to his memory our hall shall be draped in mourning, and that our members wear the usual badge for thirty days, and that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and a copy thereof presented to the family of the deceased Brother.

Let us see: Alexander was born 356 B. C.; that makes Mr Kurtz about 2230 years old. We didn't think he was more than half that age although his paper betokens the infirmities of several centuries. But hold! Perhaps this is one of Fred's jokes.

EXCURSION TICKETS FOR THE FAIR.—Arrangements have been made with the Penna. R. R. Co. whereby excursion tickets will be sold for the Fair of the Centre Co. Agricultural Society from all points on the Bald Eagle Valley, and Tyrone and Clearfield Branches, and on the main line from Huntington to Altoona, on October 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th, good for return trip until October 10th. 38—2t

——The committee on permanent certificate for school teachers will meet tomorrow (Thursday, Oct. 1st) in the town hall at Millheim to examine candidates.

MARRIED

On Sept. 23rd, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. L. S. Crone, Mr. J. Calvin Weaver, of Bellefonte, and Miss Laura G. Barnhart, daughter of P. W. Barnhart of Boggs Township.

At Unionville, Sept. 24th, 1874, by Rev. J. V. B. Hughes, Mr. Daniel B. Norris to Miss Gertie Rhumbarger.

DIED

On the 10th inst. of Cholera Infantum, Birdie, infant daughter of George and Mary Fravel of Snow Shoe, aged 6 months.

Centaur Liniment

There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling they will not subdue, and no lameness which they will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. They have produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts scalds, burns, salt-rheum, earache, &c., &c., upon the human frame, and of strains spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. They are counter-irritant, all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. The recipe is published around each bottle. They sell as no articles ever before sold, and they sell because they do just what they pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling, deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—these liniments are worth your attention. No family should be without them. "White wrapper for family use;" Yellow wrapper for animals. Sold by all Druggists. 50 cents per bottle; large bottles $1 00. J. B. ROSE & Co., 53 Broadway, New York.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest. 1-29-1y
